CEASE-FIRE STARTS THURSDAY

President Sarkis Put in Command---Warring Units Given Deadlinesfor Withdrawal to '75 Lines

By United Press International

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia, Oct. 18-Six Arab leaders signed a peace plan for Lebanon loday calling for a cease-fire this week and creation of a 30,000-man Arab force to supervise the withdrawal of the warring factions.

The announcement lonight said a cease-fire would begin throughout Lebanon Thursday morning, followed by 'a withdrawel of the compatants to posttions they held before the factional civit war began in April 1975.

The statement said the Arab peacekeeping force in Lebanon, under the command of the country's President, Elias-Sarkis, would be increased from its present size of 2.300 (roops to a deterrent force of 30,000. It was not made clear whether or not that force would include Syrian troops,

Some Ghosts of World Series Past

The World Series, which used to be a standard feature of autumn in New York, returns to the Bronx tooight after 12 years that changed almost everything but the name of the game. The Yankees, now two games down to the Cincinnati Reds and that's halfway to extinction, are playing for the North American baseball championship for the 30th time, though not remarkably well. Wheo they last represented the American League there were nine men on a team, 10 teams in a league and seven afternoon games in the tournament, and when they lost to the St. Louis Cardinals each Yankee received $5:309.29. Now 10-man teams from 12-team leagues compete at night, with the win-The Times ners getting approximately $25,000 a man. Since 1964 the Yankees have changed owners, managers and playing persoonel, and New York's taxpayers have spent $100 million converting old Yankee Stadium into a new park.

Even the team's public following bas changed, if one may judge by the crowd at the last game of the pennant playoff with Kansas City. Yankee fans in the past were accustomed to success and cool about it; if not downright smug. At last week's playoff, spectators threw bottles and coanted obscenities while tearing up the premises.

Like the present owners, who are mostly from Cleveland.

the new champions of the American League are comparative strangers imported from other teams. Except for Babe Ruth, who was bought from the Boston Red Sox, most heroes of the past, such as Lou Gehrig, came to the majors as Yankees. Another of these demigods, Yogi Berra, managed the last pennant winner and was dismissed after the defeat by St. Louis.

The owners who fired him, Del Webb and Dan Toppiog, did not often own up to mistakes, but two hours before Webb's death he had a colloquy with his doctor, a friend of Berra's. "Do you see Yogi?" Del asked.

"As ofteo as I can."

"Next time you see him," Webb said, "tell him we fouled him.'

Beginning in 1923, when their third straight pennant winner brought off the club's first World Series success, a legend of Yankee invincibility flourished for 40 years. It became more than a legend during its last 16 years, wheo the club swept five straight penoants and five World Scries, finished second once and won the next four pennants, dropped back to third and then ran off another skein of five.

Last time New York and Cincinnati hooked up was near

ABOUT ARAB BOYCOTT It Releases Data From Companies

That Were Asked to Comply

By EDWARD COWAN Special 15 The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Oct. i8-The Com-

The department's move to let reporters Carter to disclose the names of companies that "have participated" in the Arab boycost.

Mr. Ford's use of the past tense may have been a mistake. On Oct. 7 the Commerce Department said that companies had submitted reports through Oct. 6 under a promise of confidentiality and that therefore disclosure would apply only to reports filed after Mr. Ford's announcement of the change of policy.

The reports, which were released in midafternoon 10day, were all filed with the department after Oct. 6. They came from an assortment of American manofacturing companies, freight forwarders and banks, all involved in exporting to Arab states.

No company said in its report that it would refuse to observe the boycott. Aftached to some reports were copies of the compliance statements that the Ares importers require as a condition of doing business.

In general, the exporters, forwarde 🖘 · or banks providing credit are obliged by the boycott terms to affirm that the goods are not of Israeli origin and do not contain Israeli materials and that the ships carrying the goods are not israely ships and will not call at Israeli ports. # Once Regarded as Cut-and-Dried, 🎧 U.N. Election May Take New Turn

By PETER GROSE Special to The New York Time:

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 18resident Luis Echeverria Alvarez of Mexico injected unexpected competition into the election of the next Secretary General today by declaring his readiness to ruo against the iocumbent, Kurt Waldheim of Austria. Long rumored to be interested in the post-he steps down as Mexico's Presi-dent on Dec. 1-Mr. Echeverria so far bas not attracted significant support among the most influential delegates

What today's announcement does bowever, is open up what most diplomats had regarded as a cut-and-dried affair; Mr. Waldheim, who announced his own readiness to serve aoother five-year term last week, has strong pledges of support from most of the major regional groupings of the United Nations.

The only serious weakness in his can-didacy has been that he is a European, as were two of his three predecessors-Trygve Lie of Norway and Dag Ham-marskiold of Swedeo. U Thant, who was Secretary General for 10 years ending o 1971, was Burmese.

Chance for 'Compromise Candidate'

With the third world oow holdiog such large majority in the United Nations, seemed desirable to many delegations that the top executive position should be held by a diplomat from the third world. Even if Mr. Echevernia's caodidacy does not immediately generate cothuslasm, it could open the way far other third-world personalities to be put forward as "com-promise" candidates. Mr. Waldbeim's term of office expires

Dec. 31. Though Security Council mem-bers have already started informal con-sultations on which candidate to recommend to the Geoeral Assembly for election, China and snme third-world govern-ments have advised delaying the final decision until December.

In the private discussions cround the United Natioos, three names are ofteo mentioned as possible alternatives to Mr. Waldheim. They are Hamilton Shirley Amerasinghe of Sri Lanka, president of the current General Assembly and a veteran United Nations diplomat; Shridath Ramphal of Guyana, a furmer for-eign minister and now Secretary General Secretary General five years from now of The Commonwealth, and Carlos Ortiz de Rozas, Argentina's chief delegate at the United Nations and an unsuccessful contender in the election woo by Mi Waldheim five years ago.

Amnuncement of Candidacy

It was Mr. Ortiz de Rozas who raised the subject of Mr. Echeverria's possible candidacy at a closed meeting of the Latin American group of delegates this morning. Responding, the Mexicao repre-sentative said be had been authorized to announce Mr. Echeverría's readiness to serve "if there were a current of opinioo among members of the various regional -especially among these of Latin American group."

After the meeting, several participants said that, in keeping with past practice, the Latin American group would not endorse aoy candidate as a unified bloc. The largest of the regional groups at the United Nations, the African bloc, has already formally endorsed Mr. Waldheim for re-election. There is widespread speculation that by supporting a European candidate in this election the Africans will be in a stroog position to put fnrward one of their own diplomats for

For others, the day brought another kind of anguish. This morning, for example, a poor woman and her six children were forced to give up the richly furnished apartment where they bad been squatting for the last two months at the request of the owner who had moved to France. Armed men from one of the Moslem militias made her surrender the apartment key, saying they bad to make an "investigation.

A refugee from Naba, the Moslem neighborhood in the aoutheastern Christian suburbs that was overrun by Christian militiamen in early August, she became a victim of one of the moat common tricks. Tenants, especially refugees, are being frightened out of apartments so that the furniture and all other possessions can be carted away and sold.

Looted goods of every description are on sale everywhere in the capital. Stocks taken from shops are sold in a permanent sidewalk bazaar all along Hamra.

Used possessions are piled up on street corners in residential quarters and sold to farmers who come in from the villages. Refrigerators are higb in demand.

In Mesethi a popular quarter, a gentle-looking elderly man presided today over a sidewalk collection of easy chairs, framed mirrors, broken coffee tables and air conditioners. Prices are flexible because the goods have no real value for him except for the bribes that bad been paid to gunmen in other neighborhoods along the streets that the truck bad to take with the loot.

There is no effective law enforcement in the Moslem-held part of the city since Al Fatah, the main Palestinian guerrilla group, decided to band its security role over to its Lebanese Moslem and leftist allies.

Most Men Carry Guns

A police force has been created by one Lebanese leftist Moslem alliancebut it consists of young guerrillas, not trained policemen. and its role has largely been to man roadblocks to check for stolen cars,

About half a million people still live in Beirut. That is about half its prewar population. Most of the men carry guns.

There is safety in the neighborhoods -except for shells and mortar rounds -wbere etvery person is known and no outsiders can move without being watched. Beirutis now seldom leave their neighborhoods and if they do they are back by about 5 P.M., long before nightfall.

There, in the neighborhoods, life con-tinues with a deceptive air of normalcy.

'The Lebanese Miracle'

"Look over there, that's the Lebanese miracle. That's why we survive," a small businessman on Barbour Street, in a middle-class neigbborhood, said, pointing at a young man in a black and white T-shirt selling bananas from a pushcart. "That man had a good job with an airline, now he is peddling bananas."

The businessman owned a fish market in the now-destroyed commercial quarter. Two or three days a week one of his old fisbermen still brings ce fish that he sells from a

Lebanese Christians Capture Key Guerrilla Post

The rightist Lebanese radio said to-night that Christian forces had captured the barracks at Merj 'Uyun, five miles from the Israeli border, and Palestinian and Lebanese leftist spokesmen conceded that there had been hand-to-hand fighting there. Reports from the area said that a column of heavy smoke was rising from the fortress-like installation and that refu-gees from Merj 'Uyun were clogging the winding mountain roads westward to-ward the coast. Yesterday, Lebanese Christian militiamen using armored cars and weapons Hebrew markings occupied the with Moslem village of Hannine southwest of Meri 'Uyun. Israelis bave equipped Lebanese Christian militia units in southern Lebanon as part of an apparent move to prevent Palestinian guerrillas from returning to the border area and again becoming a threat to Israel. The military importance of Merj 'Uyun ies in the control that those occupying it can exercise on the only access road in the area to the Arkub region, the slope of Mount Hermon that had been the staging area for Palestinian guerrillas operating against Israel before the Lebanese civil war. [A Lebanese Moslem officer quoted by The Associated Press said that Is-raeli forces had entered Merj 'Uyun, and other Moslems said they had engaged Israelis in hand-to-hand combat. An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv, however, denied that Israeli forces had been involved.]

In other developments, residential quarters in Beirut on both sides of the lines dividing Moslems from Christians suffered some of the heaviest artillery combardments since the start of the 18 month-old Lebanese civil war. But on the fighting fronts between Syr ians and Palestinians, the cease-fire pro-claimed under Saudi Arabian pressure Saturday apparently remained in force.

The attack against Merj 'Uyun was car-ried out by the Lebanese Christian gar-rison stationed in Qlaiaa, some two miles to the south.

On a visit to Qlalaa on Oct. 7, foreign orrespondents sooke with the Christian commander of the garrison, a career officer in the Lebanese Army who had re-

SOUTH AFRICA ARMS BAN PROPOSED IN U.N. COUNCIL

Special to The New York Times UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 18-Third-world countries proposed in the Se-curity Council today that an arms embargo be imposed oo South Africa to compel it to give up South-West Africa and accede to free elections there under United Netions auspices.

Although the proposal was considered certain to be blocked by a triple vetothe United States, Britain and Francethe seven sponsors indicated that they intended to press for a vote tomorrow on their proffered resolution.

The United States, France and Britain used their veto power in June 1975 to block a similar resolution calling for a mandatory arms embargo against South Africa. Their argument was that they did not regard the issue as e threat to inter-national peace justifying invocation of sanctions. The resolution was sponsored by Guyana, Benin-formerly Dahomey-Libya, Pakistan, Panama, Tanzania and Rumania. The Rumanians usually sponsor third-world proposals. Rashleigh Esmond Jackson of Guyana.

Norwegian America Line and Delta Air Lines have put together a Fly/ Cruise package that's easy to take. You fly to the ship on"the airline run by professionals," and sail with a cruise line that has six decades of experience.

From October to May, you will sail on a ship that was built for world cruising (under Norwegian registry) and discover new worlds in the Caribbean. The Vistafjord is 25,000 tons but carries only 700 passengers - other ships this size carry up to 200 more. And there's one European crew member for every two passengers.

The spacious dining room can seat everyone at one sitting, so you're never rushed through a meal. Most of the staterooms are outside accommodations and most have bathtubs. There are two pools, a sauna, a gym, a full casino and plenty of shipboard entertainment. And lots of quiet places for when you feel like doing nothing.

In fact you will enjoy the ship so much, you won't want to get off in port. Until you see the ports...Martinique, Haiti, Curacao, not to mention Puerto Rico and St. Thomas (with duty-free shopping). And most every cruise visits La Guaira in South America.

There is a 1-week cruise, and a dozen 2-week cruises, sailing on Saturday evenings.

The Fly/Cruise package includes round-trip air fare on Delta at special savings, transfers to and from the pier in Florida, the luxing cruise, and all port taxes.

See your travel agent now or contact Norwegian America Line, 29 Broadway, New York, N.Y., 10006 (212-422-3900).

Flu Shots and Administration

Inadequate Publicizing of Program's Hazards Held Stalling Drive Despite Ruling on Vaccine

LAWRENCE K. ALTMAN ecial to The New York Time

medical investigation has given the swine flu vaccine a clean bill of health and the program here resumed today with a prescription designed to correct what are widely regarded as adminis-trative ills in the national campaign.

The oational flu immuniza-News tion program was jolted last week when the Allegheny Analysis County Health Department Suspended its program because three elderly persons died shortly after they were given flu shots within one hour in the same clinic. The Pittshurgh decision, led officials in 11 states to temporarily halt their programs because of coocern over possible hidden dangers in the flu vaccine.

However, the vaccine was declared safe after tests by Federal scientists showed that nothing was in the vaccine that should not have been there.

Although influenza vaccines are among the safest, good reason exists for such concern because books have been written about the hazards of immunizations. Over about the nazards of immunications. Over all, vaccines have saved so many lives that most people have not known that ex-perimeotal vaccines and even some more fully developed have paralyzed a few people seeking protection against polio-myelitis, have produced liver disease in those immunized against yellow fever, and have caused nerve and brain damage in those trying to escape death from rabies.

New Epidemic Feared

The swine flu vaccine was developed under emergency cooditions after the under emergency cooditions after the discovery of a new strain of influenza virus at Fort Dix, N.J., last February. Federal epidemiologists at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta waroed of the prospects of a new epidemic of influenza, possibly as severe as the one in 1918-19 that is regarded as perhaps may's most devastating epidemic. man's most devastating epidemic.

Some people who question the center's recommendation of a mass immunization program have warned that the vaccine might prove dangerous hecause it had to be prepared so hastily. But even after the three deaths that occurred here last week, it is the rare expert who doubts the safety of the curreot lofluenza vac-

Not too loog ago, vaccines were given only in doctors' offices. But with the in-creasing emphasis on preveo tive medicine in recent years, public health officials have organized mass campaigns against polio wheo that immunization was new or wheo threats of epidemics of the paralyzing disease occurred.

Although all Americans as children were advised to get vaccinations against smallpox and shots against such child-hood diseases as measies and diphtheria, the curreot influeoza immunizatioo program is unprecedented. Health officials have never tried before to immunize every Americao against any one disease at any ooe time.

Hits Elderly and III Severty

Influenza is a viral infectioo that takes Its heaviest death toll among chronically ill and elderly people. Many included in PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18—A Federal to the dangers of pills and injections and medical investigation has given the swine warns patients to question doctors about invaccine a clean bill of health and whether such prescriptions are necessary. It is in this sensitive climate that the swine flu immunization program is oper-ating, an environment that critics say was not considered sufficiently by the Govern-ment in its rush to try to provide enough doses to immunize every willing Ameri-can against swine influenza.

The campaign is off to a delayed start because of the dispute over liability insurance coverage, a problem that critics con-tend reflects a lack of administrative foresight in recognizing the potential problem, given the current malpractice problem, given the current maphactac controversy. State laws require that doc-tors provide informed consent when treating patients, but the Center for Dis-ease Cootrol was criticized for the per-mission slips it had originally printed.

Here, the lines of anxious elderly and chrooically ill persons were longer than expected in the first week of the program, in part because of concern that the vac-cine supply would run out before all could get their shots. Heart attacks occurred among a few who stood in line, and some doctors link their deaths to stress.

New Guidelines Issued

The Allegheny County Health Depart-ment has issued new guidelines aimed at shortening the lines and reducing physical and mental stress among the physical and mental stress among the susceptible population. Doctors are divid-ed in their opinion about what role stress plays in producing heart attacks, but few would defend the merits of exposing a patient with known heart disease to un-necessary stress. And the Health Depart-ment, in a major modification, urged high-risk persons to get their flu shots from their private doctors instead of at public clinics.

Even before the problem developed here last Monday, Federal epidemiologists knew that by chaoce alone deaths were hound to occur among people who had just gotten a flu shot. Statisticians even calculated the figures, although probably no one forecast the cluster of three deaths in one hour that occurred bere But in the promotion of the program by the Ceoter for Disease Control, the problem was not highlighted and the pub-lic was not forewarned. Now, such offi-cials as Dr. H. Bruce Dull, the center's assistant director, concede that more at-tention should have been given to such important details important details.

A Problem of Sociology

A Problem of Sociology The problem of coincidental deaths, Dr. Duil said, "wasn't widely publicized be-cause it didn't seem useful, and we as-sumed it would be widely known, under-stood and anticipated because public health clinics regularly are coocerned about program-associated problems like someooe falliog dowo the stalrs. We're cootioually learning a lot about the soci-ology of programs like this." Dr. Frank B. Clack, director of the Alle-

Dr. Frank B. Clack, director of the Alle-gheoy County Health Department, criticized government officials for oot advising the public better about the potential hazards to programs that could result from falsely associating death with flu shots. He said:

Congressional district during his eight years in office?

According to Police Department statistics, major crimes between 1968 and 1975 rose more than twice as fast in our district as they did in the rest of Manhattan. For instance, rape in the 18th C.D. rose 114.3% vs. 95.9%; robbery increased 86.3% vs. 21.1%; and muggings climbed 90.5% vs. 32.3%. In category after category, this district's rate of major crimes has substantially outpaced Manhattan's as a whole. What has Ed Koch proposed? Instead of developing an effective plan, his answer to the crime wave was to hand out whistles.

Where was Ed Koch when New York City's worst fiscal crisis was developing?

Why didn't Ed Koch see the signs of New York's fiscal collapse and offer effective congressional leadership in rallying support for our city? When he was due to move up in the important House Banking, Currency and Housing Committee, Ed Koch quit in order to join another committee. In doing that, he abandoned a position which would have given him the power to help write the legislation to aid this district, and this city, when we needed help the most. While many congressmen strive to get on committees that are relevant to the needs of their districts, Koch shunned that responsibility.

Sonia Landau's first order of business, if she's elected, is to get on the very committee Ed Koch quit.

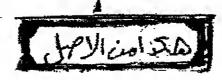

Will Ed Koch pledge to serve out his term if elected as congressman and not run for mayor?

The voters of the 18th Congressional district will be the losers if Ed Koch runs for mayor of this city. There is an inevitable conflict of interest if he's running for mayor while he's running for Congress. The more time he spends running for mayor, the less time he can spend working

Excerpts From Interview with Vorster in Pretoria Vorster Rules Out Black Role In Political Life of South Afr

Special to The New York Times

PRETORIA, South Africa, Oct. 18-Following are excerpts from an interview with Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa.

Q. Should Mr. Smith oot be able to procure from the black nationalists at Geneva ao agreement oo the terms, or broadly on the terms, that were put to Mr. Smith at Pretoria, would South Africa then consider itself to be obliged to support Mr. Smith in whatever way ha needed until such a settlement could be reached?

A. South Africa's attitude has all along been for the 11 years since UDI Junilateral declaratioo of independence] that we will not take part in any boycotts and that we will not close our borders between South Africa. and Rhodesia. This attitude will remain under all circumstances.

Q. Sir, if one looks at the most pessimistic forecasts of what could occurthat the war in Rhodesia might continue and get worse, a war which has relied to date, as I understand it, rather servicy on continued South African supplies. South Africa being now Rho-desia's sole source of supplies-would South Africa consider it its duty to make it possible for the Rhodesiana to continue to sustain that war so long as the settlement put before Mr. Smith in Pretoria was not furthcuming?

A. You will appreciate that many of the questions that you now put to me are not questions which should be replied to in public, and I don't think it serves any purpose at this stage to discuss these matters. Snuth Africa has gone out of its way for years and years to seek peace in southern Africa and to explore all avenues which might lead to an acceptable settlement in southern Africa, and we will continue to do it for as long as it is possible or seems rossible to do so.

Proposed South-West Africa Talks

Q. If I might turn for a moment to South-West Africa; which I understand has been the subject of intensive discussions here in Pretoria between yourstlf and your embassador to Washing-ton and other senior officials during the last few days. It seems now, Sir, that the possibility of resolving the impasse on the fiture of South-West Africa may well depend on South Africa's attitude towards the conference, again, I believe, in Geneva, that has been proposed by Secretary of State Kissinger. Sir, I wonder if you could tell me whether in the light of the recent discussions, South Africa would be prepared to participate in such a conference?

A. South Africa's attitude is perfectly plain. South-West Africa does not be-long to South Africa and we don't claim that territory as ours. It belongs to the various peoples of South-West Africa, and our attitude all along has been that it is for those peoples whose land it is to decide their own future. The peoples are oow gathered in a conference, mostly through elected and properly elected leaders and in a few cases-the minority-by their natural leaders. Those leaders will, as I see it, decide their own procedures and their own venue. The South African Government will not prescribe in this regard whatsoever.

Would Weight Observer Status

Q. Sir, you have clearly stated oo many occasions your adamant opposi-tion to any direct contacts between same right cannot be granted to the peoples of South-West Africa.

Q. Sir, in the light of these remarks, is it yet possible that South African representatives might be physically present as observers, though not as participants, in an international conference?

A. If requested that South Africa should send an observer to the conference, then such requests will be seriously considered by the South African Government. Up to this stage no such request has been forthcoming. Q. But you would not participate directly in such a conference? A. Let me put it that way. Because the peoples must, according to our view, decide their own future, and because we are not a colonial power, there is no need for South Africa to participate in the conference itself and, indeed, I think it would be wrong for South Africa to do so because it will only then be said by our enemies that we are prescribing to the conference and influencing the conference to come to certain decisions, and that we do oot want to do, or be seen to do.

The Issue of Walvis Bay

One further question on South-West Africa. It seems from the state-ments that have been made by the South-West African People'a Organization, and, indeed, by some of the people at the Turnhalle conference [in Windhoek], that one problem that might arise at such a conference would be South Africa's determination, to maintain control of the port and the surrounding territory at Walvis Bay:

A. It is not a question of South Afri-ca's intention to control the port. The fact of the matter aimply is that Walvis Bay is South African territory, and Is not-an dI repeat, not-part of the mandated territory of South-West Africa.

O. Mr. Prime Minister, there seems to be in South Africa a difference of view as to the likely consequence for Couth Africa of the developments in the adjuning territories. I'm wundering cu could comment on the assertion t has been made by certain members the Couth African political opposicorrect of majority rule in Rhodesia and uth-West Africa will increase, not ernment to reach an accommodation a political accommodation-with the black majority in South Africa?

A. As far as South Africa is conceroed, we have reached that accommodation and nur policy is clear-we wanted and have bronght up the vari-ous black peoples to the stage of selfgovernment and at this stage they all have self-government. The next logical step is the one that the Transkei will be taking on the 26th of October, namely that of absolute iodependence, and is entirely up to the self-governiog black nations to decide the dates on which they want to become independent, and be as independent in theory and in practice aa any other African state, or for that matter, any other state in the world. In other words, there are and will be no strings attached to independence.

Consequences of Majority Rule .

O. Before we launch into a discussion of South Africa's own political situa-tion. I wonder whether we could look again at what you perceive to be the diplomatic and strategic consequences for South Africa of the movement towards majority rule in Rhodesia and South-West Africa?

publicly that you do not regard this as a crisis for South Africa. I wonder if you could ten me what you regard the significance of these disorders as being what explains them and what is the seeming purpose of those disorders?

A. The Judge President of the Transvaal has been appointed to inquire into these riots and it would be most inappropriate if I were to comment on your question at this stage, except to say. that this sort of riot has occurred in many, many countries, and in your own country I think it ran on for five years not so very long ago.

Q. At the moment the disorders appear to have reached a full, certainly a low point. If one is to believe what black radicals have said, they will, however, cootinue, and some of these zentlemen have even said that the struggle, as they call it, would be carried out of the black areas and into white areas. I'm wondering what you make of such statements and what the Government's reaction to that kind of-

A. The Gavernment is responsible for law and order and will at all times adopt such methods as to restore law and order should people be so foolish as to commit arson and destruction now nr in the future. And it is clear. to me that those responsible are by far in the minority.

Q. What is it that you believe the attitude of the black majority in this country to be?

A. I believe that the vast majority of the people-black and white-are against these sporadic attempts to create disorder and destruction, and I have no doubt that that will be shown up by the commission's report. Q. Perhaps we should talk now about what the Government's political actions are likely to be. You have yourself said that there will be change. I wonder if you could tell me how far this change will go in adjusting relations between the races in this country?

The Fature of Urban Blacks

A. I'm afraid I haven't got time to discuss this whole matter with you. save to say that this Government has brought about more changes, constructive changes, than all previous govern-ments combined, and to stress again that this Government has created channels of communication between the Government, the black, colored and in-dian leaders, which never existed be-fore, and that this Government is in continuous consultation with the various leaders and communities at all levels.

Q. When the homeland leaders met in Johannesburg on Aug. 21, and after ther more recent meeting with you, a number of them rejected political independence, political rights for blacks in the homeland, and said that the crux of the dilemma for them-for blacks io this country-is the position of urban blacks, specifically whether.

urban blacks will be given permanency and polltical and aocial rights. Could you tell me what your long-range view of the future of urban blacks is?

A I've had many discussions, dozens and dozens of discussions, with black government leaders, and not a single black leader in their talks with me has ever disowned their people.cow working in the urban or rural areas of South Africa Q. In the longest future, can one look to the possibility of black people, politically and socially, in the life of Sonth Africa? A. As far as political rights are concerned, the urban and the rural blacks exercise those rights in their homelands. They are registered voters in the homelands. They exercise the vote. They put themselves up as candidates, and many of them were and are elected as members of the various parliaments of the homelands. In fact, to name but two, the Chief Minister of Lebows, that is the Chief Minister of the Sotho peoole, and the Chief: Minister of the Kwakwa homeland, Chief Minister Mopedi, and the other one naturally s Dr. Phatudi. They come from the urban areas, and so do various ministers as well as members of parliament.

Integration Is Ruled Out

Q. I take it then that as far as you are concerned there is no possibility of there being an integrated polity in what is now white South Africa?

A. Again, I want to stress that no single bomeland leader has ever re-quested me to disenfranchise these peoole either in the urban or the rural areas of South Africa. They not only vote in their homelands, but the taxes that they pay and which are collected by the South African Government are paid in full to the homeland governments.

Q. There are, if one might say so, prophets of the apocalypse in South Africa-South Africans, white and black, who say that a historical process has begun in southern Africa which can only end with all of Africa being black-ruled. These people say that nothing that the Government can do now can now do more than delay that eventuality. I wonder if you would comment on that?

as much right to their part of South Africa as any other people. The Egyptians are not black, and many other African nations are not black. We are not colooialists. We are not temporary sojourners. We have as much right to be in South Africa as you have to be in America. Q. You do not foresee the passibility that eventually white rule will cede to black rule?

A. I canoot foresee such a day at aod I repeat that is our right to all be bere on the land we occupy. We . whatsoever.

whether the various black delegations going to Geneva want a settlement, and secondly, whether they can solve their own internal difficulties," Mr. Vorster said. He added that, in the event of failure, South Africa would continue its role as Rhodesia's sole supplier.

Mr. Kissinger has also proposed 2 er declared: "I don't see that es Mr. Kissinger nas also proposed - or under all." He added the territory that South Africa took over as a League of Nations mandate in 1920. Mr. Vorster, in a slight easing of his earli-er position, declared that South Africa would consider a role as an observer, though not send a delegation.

Contact With SWAPO Ruled Out

The Prime Minister maintained his hos tile stance toward the South-West African People's Organization, recognized by the United Nations as the legitimate rep-resentative of the territory's 900,000 peo-

"I did not dema capital, to decide whether to meet the organization in Geneva.

Most of his remarks dealt with South Africa's domestic political situation. He played down the significance of the disorders in black suburbs, which have left more than 300 blacks dead since June, saying that the blacks involved were "by far in a minority" and were opposed by "the vest majority" of blacks.

Asked about black warnings that the violence would intensify and spread to white areas, the Prime Minister declared that the Government would take all necessary steps to restore order "should people he so foolish as to commit arson cr destruction, now or in the future." In the meantime, he indicated, the Government will hold to the fundamentals of its racial policies. These policies, he taid, will enjoy "a great moment" next Thesday, when the Transkei becomes independent. The Transkei is the first of nine homelands to accept independence under the sepa-rate development policy, which offers blacks emancipation in the tribal domains in place of political and social rights in South Africa as a whole.

Many black spokesmen, including most of the homeland leaders, have rejected

A. I have nothing to talk to SWAPO at all. Nujoma is neither a natural nor an elected leader of any of the peoples of South-West Africa. He is out of that country for nearly two decades, and I don't recognize his rights or the right of his organization to be the only rep-resentative of South-West Africa, as has been decided by various world hodies. What is more, South Africa is not, as has often been stated, the colonial power vis-a-vis South-West Afri-ca. We are also not an occupation power. We are an administrative power and our powers of administration were conferred upon us by the League of Nations. We will end that task if and when requested to do so by the peoples of South-West Africa through their rightful representatives. 'All over the world it is recognized that the peoples have the right to decide their own fu-ture and I fail th understand wby this

A. South Africa has stated time and again that as far as its neighboring countries are concerned it has no say on the personnel of the government. It is not our affair: For the sake of southern Africa, we are only concerned with good government. That was stated clearly in the case of Mozambique and that is our policy. Q. Do you think that this diplomatic movement, now under way, if successfully concluded, will make it easier for South Africa to reach or promote harmunious relations between the races here in South Africa?

A. I would like to hope that that would be the position-that all southern African states were living in peace and harmony.

Q. In the past four months there has been very considerable violence in the black townships in South' Africa. All together, I believe, more than 300 people have died in this. You have said

Kissinger Tells China U.S. Remains Steadfast Against Any Soviet Threat

State Department officials suggested that the Secretary had said something important that bad been overlooked by the the public change in policy except to say news media.

Administration officials said this was the strongest public formulation of Unit-ed States interest in China's security, but that it is identical to what Mr. Kissinger has believed since 1969 and what he has privately stated to Chinese leaders over the years.

At the news conference, Mr. Kissinger was asked if "at some point the United States should or might sell arms to China —provide any kind of defense equipment to China?"

No Talks About Arms Sales

He answered: "We have never had any request for the sale of arms to China. we have never had any discussions with China about the sale of arms. Kissinger gave a similar but not identical agreed with Chinese leaders to oppose a grave matter if there was a massive 'Soviet Union.

In his latest statement, he hardened could" -to "would" and broadened the "threatened."

The few Administration officials privy tn China policy would not comment on that the Secretary's new public formulation speaks for itself.

A Variety of Explanations

Other officials offered a variety of explanations. Some held that Mr. Kissinger was seeking to reassure Pekiog's new moderate leaders in their struggle for power against the radicals in the wake of the death of Mao Tse-tung.

One official suggested that Mr. Kissinger was seeking to slightly reopen the door to potential arma sales to China that Mr. Ford had unequivocally abut in the recent foreign-policy debate with Jimmy Carter. Others speculated that Mr. Kissinger's

The tax shelter has traditionally been reserved for giant corporations and millionaires.

But at The Manhattan Savings Bank, we have a tax shelter reserved for you.

It's called a Keogh Plan. And if you're selfemployed-or own your ownbusiness-it can not only save you money on taxes. It can guarantee a comfortable retirement. ····· Under our Keogh Plan, you can deposit as much as 15% of your earned income (up to $7,500 ayear) into a high yield Keogh Account.

And every year at income tax time, you'll be able to deduct that $7,500 from your earned income.

The interest your Keogh Account earns is tax-sheltered. Which simply means you don't have to pay taxes on it until after you retire. When you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket.

And when you do retire, you discover a second beautiful thing about our Keogh Plan. For example, if you're 30 now and deposit

Court to Decide if Separate School May Be Established for Each Sex

Justices Accept Plea From a Philadelphia Girl Denied Admission to All-Boy Public Institution

By LESLEY OELSNER ai to The New Yorld Time

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18-The Supreme (are sex-segregated and so are some public Court agreed today to decide whether a colleges. Congress said io the Educational Opcity's public school system may have one college preparatory school solely for boys and one solely for girls, The Court's action, in a case from cant ruling on sex discrimination.

It comes five and a half years after the high court in a South Carolina case affirmed a lower court ruling that upheld the women-only policy at one of the state's public colleges. In that case, the lower court had reasoned that because the college was set up to offer coursea such as needlework and stenography, which it said were "suitable" for women it was rational to exclude men.

Public School Rejection

The Court acted today at the request of Susan Lynn Vorcheimer of Philadelplua, who was turned down when she applied in 1974 to Central High School, the second oldest public high school in the nation and long a training ground leaders.

Miss Vorchelmer won the initial round of her challenge when a Federal District Court ruled that Central'a boys-only policy violated the constitutional guarantee of equal protection of the laws. But the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit reversed by vote of 2 to 1, holding that a legitimate educational policy might be served by sex segrega-

In other action today, the high court reversed one of its own precedents, estab-lisbed in 1897, on a procedural issue that can have significant practical importance: whether a Federal District Court can reopen a case that has been reviewed by The Court, in an unsigned three-page opinion, ruled that permission from the appeals court was not necessary.

The Court issued the ruling in a case involving the Standard Oil Company of California. A few years ago, a Federal District Court, after an eight-day trial. enjoined the company from certain practices that the court found violated antitrust law. The Supreme Court summarily affirmed that ruling. The company is now seeking to have the judgment set aside on grounds of alleged misconduct by Government counsel and by a material witness.

Recall of Decision Urged

The company asked the Justices to re- agreed to bear her case but that she was call their dccision affirming the initial a little disappointed that she would not district court judgment so that it could be able to get direct benefits from a file a request with the District Court that favorable ruling. the case be reopened under the Federal "I'm just glad the case has reached a the case be reopened under the Federal "I'm just glad the case has reached a procedural rule that allows relief in cases where a final decision can be where there has been a mistake, fraud made," she said.

portunities Act of 1974 that the mainte-nance of dual school systems in which students are assigned solely on the basis Philadelphia, opeos the way for a signifi- of sex denies to those students the equal protection of the laws. The majority of the Court of Appeals, however, said in rejecting Miss Vorchei-mer's plea that the atatute was ambiguous and that it did not specifically prohibit states from segregating schools on the basis of sex.

Raises Major Issue

Beyond the schools that will be affected by the Court's ruling, though, the case is also important because it raises clearly The high court did not hear oral argu-ments in that case, however, and did not issue an opinion. Also, to the years since set since issue of sex discrimination law-whether classifications that are based of set should be regarded by the courts if whether classifications that are based on sex should be regarded by the courts in sions on other sex-discrimination issues the same way as classifications based on substantially broadening women's rights. are not supported by the source of the support are not supported by a compelling and valid reason.

There is no question that if Philadelphia tried to have one college preparatory school for whites and one for blacks the segregation would be unconstitutional. But the Court has not yet ruled that sex is a suspect category. Thus sex classificafor the city's smartest boys and future tions have been upheld if they meet the less stringent test of being rational ways to attain e legitimate state purpose.

Excelled in Science

Miss Vorcheimer attended a coeducational junior high school for scholastically superior children, excelling in science and math. One reason she wanted to go to Central was that, as the appeals court condeded, its scientific facilities were bet-ter than those at Girls' High. Wheo she was turned down at Central, she decided

Also today, the Justices refused to review the case of a New Jersey music teacher who was dismissed by the Ber-nardsville school authorities because of a sex-change operation in which the teacher was changed from a man to a woman.

The teacher, formerly Paul M. Grossman and now using the first name Paula, alleged that the dismissal was sex dis-crimination in violation of both the Constitution and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, hecause, she said, she was dismissed solely because she was now a woman.

Damage to Children Feared

The school board disputed the fact that the teacher was now a woman; it contended that the dismissal was legal because it was based on the operation itself and on the emotional and psychological damage to school children that could be caused if they saw the teacher return to school as a woman after having previously been a man.

As Paul Grossman, the teacher was married and the father of three daughters.

The lower courts all rejected the teacher'a pleas. The Supreme Court, in refusing review, offered no comment and no Jus-tice recorded a dissent.

The Philadelphia schools case centers on two long-established schools, Central for boys, and Girls' High-the only city schools specifically designated for college preperatory work.

The decision, though, will affect any other similar schools in other cities, and may also affect public vocational schools and colleges.

It is unciear exactly how many other schools are involved. One of Miss Vorcheimer's lawyers, Jill Laurie Goodman, of the American Civil Liberties Union, said today that there were only a few other schools similar to Philadelphia's. But, she said, many vocational schools DANTZIG, George B., protessor of opera-

A $100,000 interest in the estate of the late Clyde Tolson, loogtime companion of the late J. Edgar Hoover, has been won by his brother, Hillory Tolson, in a Washington out-of-court cattlement. The late director of the settlement. The late director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation be-queathed $500,000 to Clyde Tolsoo. When Mr. Tolson died last year, he left his estate to John P. Mohr, assistant F.B.I. director and seveo other persons as well as two charities. The Tolson will excluded Hillory, who is 78 years old and who had not seen his brother in 15 years. The successful suit argued that Mr. Mohr, who drafted the will, and other persons had used undue influence on Clyde Tolson to gain the estate.

Michael Foot, a candidate in this week's Labor Party election for deputy leader, entered a London hospital yesterday suffering from shingles, a viral inflammation of the skin. He is ex-pected to be there for at least a week. In this year's party balloting for a leader to succeed Sir Harold Wilson, Mr. Foot, a 63-year-old Labor left-winger, lost out to James Callaghan, the present Prime Minister. Now the Gov-ernment's leader in the House of Com-mons, Mr. Foot is being challenged. for the deputy party leadership by Shirley Williams, the Minister of Edu-cation cation.

"I don't have one nostalgic bone in my body for the 1960's," Timothy Leary told a weekend audience of Tufts University students in Medford, Mass. Known for his earlier advocacy of the drug LSD, the 56-year-old former pro-fessor was released from Federal prison io April pending appeal of a marijuana conviction. "I have no desire to go back to Woodstock [N.Y., scene of a 1969 rock festival] and spend three days in the mud oo 'downers'." Dr. Leary said, "even though I think Woodstock was necessary and it was im-portant for those 500,000 people [a high estimate] to get together." LAURIE JOHNSTON

States no longer had the "stomach" to mitment by some official in the Pentagon face up to the Soviet Union.

Seldom if ever has the nation's top ranking military officer been put through such a public exercise in clarifying his

It was an exercise imposed upon him you say that not the traily, is Israel and by his civilian superiors, who were presumably anxious to silence a poten-itally embarrassing political incident stirred up by the general, who two years ago was reprimanded by President Ford for suggesting before a Duke University audience that Jews had undue influence in Compress and controlled hanks and too with [Senator Jacob K.]Javits right in Congress and controlled banks and newspapers in the United States. Accompanied by Mr. Rumsfeld, General Brown appeared in the Pentagon news conference room to read a two-page statement — which his civilian superiors had helped to draft - designed, he said, to place his comments in the interview in the "proper perspective." Mr. Rumsfeld indicated that neither he nor President Ford had given any consideration to reprimanding or discharging Geoeral Brown, who last summer was appointed to a second two-year term as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of staff.

Mr. Rumsfeld said that he and the President shared the "mutual view" that Geoeral Brown is "a fine officer" and thought that the "proper thing" for him to do was to appear at a news conference to explain his comments and put them in the proper perspective.

At the same time, Mr. Rumsfeld said "the absence of a reprimand should not be taken as an endorsement of inelegant phrasenlogy" on the part of the general.

Ron Nesseo, the White House press secretary, said that Mr. Ford had "made it clear to Secretrary Rumsfeld that he does not agree with the general's poor choice words in portions of the interview, but that "based on General Brown's state-ment issued today and Secretary Rumsfeld's news conference, the President con-siders the matter closed."

The latest political incideot stirred up by General Brown grows out of a in-terview that he granted last April to Ranan R. Lurie, a contributing editor and cartoonist for Newsweek International. As the White House and Defense Department discovered to their concern in the middle of last week, the six-month-old interview was to be published next week-end in an article distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Mr. Lurie has had a long connection with the Israell Army, having first served in it in 1948, when he was 16 years old. In 1967, he flew from Montreal, where he had a one-man show at Expo 67, to Israel and fought in the war as a major in the infaotry.

Now if the trends were reversed, then I could see in the long term where that might he a tremendous asset, where they could gain power and could bring about stability in the area."

Stability for Now Seen

According to the transcript, General According to the transcript, General Brown went on to say that "today there is stability because Israel is strong," but added that the "long-term outlook" was that the Arabs, with all the money they have, "are going to overcome the defi-ciency that they've bad, which is leader-ship, and technology and educated peo-ple."

In his clarifying statement today, Gen-eral Brown pointed out that he was asked whether from a purely military point of view Israel was a burden, and he said, "It is correct that from that narrow point of view, I answered that I thought it had to be considered a burden

The point that he was trying to make, he said, was that providing military as-sistance to Israel after the 1973 war required that "we draw down some United States equipment."

"That is a fact of which everyone is aware, but it should not be seen as meaning that I in any way disagreed with United States policy then or now," be said.

"United States policy toward Israel over the years has been clear: we are fully committed to the security and survival of the state of Israel. I believe in that policy wholeheartedly."

According to the transcript, General Brown expressed concern about wby Iran was "building such a tremendous military force," which he suggested was already adequate to counter Pakistan, Afghanistan and Iraq.

"Gosh, the programs the Shah has coming. It just makes you wonder whether he doesn't some day have visions of the Persian Empire." the general said. General Brown said today that the Shah of Iran was "doing an immense amount cle, which had begun to leak out in ad- for his country" and "correctly sees a vance of its publication, but defense offi- need for Iran to be militarily strong, and cials felt that his comments about Britain thus is strengthening bis armed forces and han could be equally embarrassing under conditions that serve not only Iran's security interests, but also those

"Once the role playing is over, what will our sex lives be like? When women no longer need to trade sex for security or approval and men no longer use it to conquer, will behavior completely change?" asks Ms. Editor Gloria Steinem.

Ms. Magazine has given anentire issue to sexuality. And for Ms., the sex issue begins where other magazines stop.

The psychologist and journalist team of Carol Tavris and T George Harris reveals that "both sexes hit the same degree of spasms during climax... one every eight-tenths of a second." And now it seems that men, too, can "acquire the heralded gift of multiple orgasm."

Author Molly Haskel says, "A rape fantasy has nothing to do with having a couple of teeth knocked out. It's when Robert Redford won't take no for an answer."

Issue and Debate Special Prosecutor's Unit: Permanent or Temporary

By JOHN M. CREWDSON Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18-When allegations of wrongdoing are made against an incumbent President, who should investigate? Should it be the Attorney General, who has been appointed by the President? Or should it be an independent prosecutor such as those named in the Watergate affair?

named in the Watergate affair? The questioo arose anew during the current campaign because of an allega-tion that some union funds might have been lauodered io a previous campaign of President Ford's. The Watergate special prosecutor, Charles F. Ruff, an-oounced last week that he had found no culpability oo the part of President Ford, but the political tensions gen-erated by his two-month inquiry under-scored a running debate over whether to establish the orosecutor's office in legislatloo. legislatloo.

An assessment of the political effect of the investigation of Mr. Ford in the weeks before the electico, and the in-jection into the campaign by Republi-cans of questions about Mr. Ruff's mo-tives in making the investigation, will doubtless play a major role in the de-bate over how to handle charges of high-level wrongdoing. Virtually every major figure of both parties favors establishing a special prosecutor'a office, but they differ on whether the office should be perma-nent or created oo a temporary basis when a need arises. An assessment of the political effect

The Background

One of the principal recommenda-tions made by the Senate Watergate committee two years ago was for legislation that would establish a perma-oent special prosecutor within, but technically independent of, tha Depart-ment of Justice.

That proposal grew largely out of the committee's discovery that two of President Nixon's Attorneys General, Jobn N. Mitchell and Richard G. Kliendienst, had allowed partisan political considerations to moderate the Justice Department's pursuit of facts about the darker side of the Nixon Administra-

Levi becama At-torney General early last year, be op-posed the institutionalizing of the spe-cial prosecutor's office, cooteoding that part of his mission was to, restore impartiality within the Justice Department and the trust of the public in its ability to feed off political in its ability to feod off political pressures.

pressures. Mr. Levi set about making some in-ternal reforms. He created ao Office of Professional Responsibility that would look into charges of malfeas-ance on the part of Justice officials and a Public Integrity Section that could investigate alleged crimes by Federal, state and local government employees where a cooflict of interest in their prosecution seemed evident. But reformist sentiments, encouraged at least in part by partisan considera-tions, were also high among Congres-sional Democrats. One of them, Senator Abraham A. Ribicoff of Conoecticut, introduced a bill that would establish-along the lines of the Watergate committees' recommendatioos-a permaneot special prosecutor, freed from political constraint, who could inquire into spe-cific crimes allegedly committed by the Presideot, Vice President, Cabinet-level officials or other high aides in the executive branch.

permanent prosecutor. His opposition permanent prosecutor. His opposition was founded in part on his belief that no President was "so untrustworthy that we have to have a constant in-vestigator looking into his activities." Another proponent of the "tempo-rary" version of the special prosecu-tor's office said that the office had been conceived to deal with high-level been conceived to deal with high-level executive scandals live those that caught up Sherman Adams, Robert G. Baker and former Vice President Agnew -the kind, he said, that bappen "once or twice a year" in Washington.

For Permanent Office

Earlier this summer, the Senate almost voted to approve a legislative proposal for a mechanism that would make the appointment of a special prosecutor automatic wheo an allega-tion against a Presideot or other bigh official arose that demanded a prose-official arose that demanded a prose-cutor's attentioo. But then Mr. Levi, who bad reso-lutely opposed any argument for a Federal prosecutor independent of tha Justice Department, surprised everyone when be rang in with the Administra-tioo's support for the original, perma-oent Ribicoff version. This provided for a prosecutor who could oot suc-ceed himself, to be appointed for a three-year term by the President and confirmed by the Senate. The Justice Department had before it, Mr. Levi said, at least six and as many as 40 cases of the sort that might each require the appointment of a spe-many as 40 cases of the sort that might each require the appointment of a spe-cial prosecutor. He maintained that the establishment of a permaneot of-fice would prevent such a potentially unwieldly situation. Mr. Levi later told the House that a temporary, or "trigger" appointmeot of a special prosecutor would enable "any iodividual to convert a private allegation against a bigh government official into a highly publicized inves-tigatioo." This, he argued, would take on the proportions of a "media event" in which the charges, however spur-on the proportions of a "media event" in which the charges, however spur-ious, would be "dignified by the pro-cess established by the hill." He also expressed fears that the role proposed for the courts in reviewing and in some cases overriding an At-torney General's decision on whether to make such a temporary appoint-meot was "of bighly questionable con-stitutionality."

With the backing of Mr. Ford, who at a news conference on July 19 had abandoned his previous opposition to the idea—a signal that, if such a mea-sure should clear Coogress it would surely be signed by the President— Mr. Levi's support for the permanent version caused a last-mioute turn-around in the Senate. By a vote of 91 to 5, the Senate approved a bill that was nearly identical to Mr. Ribicoff's.

The Outlook

The bill under consideration in the House when it adjourned, however, called for the establishment of a temporary, rather than a permacent, spe-cial prosecutor. Furthermore, key senators bave made it known to their House counterparts that they would accept in conference whatever version the House ultimately adopted. But the House Judiciary Committee,

Against Permanent Office

Archibald Cox, Leon Jaworski and Henry M. Ruth, the three former special prosecutors, all have spoken against a permanent prosecutor.

Their arguments varied. Mr. Ruth, for example, was concerned about the potential for abuse should such prosecutorial autonomy be accorded to a single individual on a long-term basis. He believes that the prosecutor's effectiveoess would depend largely on the stipulatioo that he could be dismissed only for "extraordinary improprieties" and would be free to pursue at will any charges coming before him that fell within his limited jurisdiction.

Mr. Jaworski argued that a permanent prosecutor of the type envisioned in the Senate hill would simply oot have enough work to keep busy, and that the office therefore might not at-tract lawyers of the high caliber that unch a calling demands. A case in point is Mr. Ruff's office, to be closed next January. The legal staff bas been reduced to two because its lawyers, less than entranced at the prospect of preparing appeal briefs and tying up loose ends of campaign fi-oaoce investigations, have left in droves for more attractive jobs.

Last month, as debate on the proposal shifted from the Senate to the House, Mr. Cox, a professor of law at Harvard, argued against going "too far in substituting laws for character," and echoed his earlier opposition to a to the mystification of observers in the Senate, failed to raise a quorum to coosider the bill, and its members apparently were oot encouraged to appear by Peter W. Rodino, Jr. Democrat of New Jersey, the committee's chairman, who was described by one Congressional aide as "not wildly enthusiastic" about the matter. It is a certainty, as certainties go in Congress, that some proposal for a spe-cial prosecutor-whether for the temporary or permanent version is unclear at this point-will be reintroduced in the Senate early in the oext session. Election Could Lead to Shift

What will happen after that is less clear. The upcoming Seoate is expected to be of the same ideological makeup as the present ooe, hat a Democratic takeover of the White House could lessen the enthusiasm there for a speclal provisioo to investigate wrongdo-ing by the President and his top aides. But the bipartisan support the measure received the first time around, coupled with a good deal of public commitment by Democrats to a reform of the political process itself, might well carry the proposal a second time. Although there is apparently some sentiment in Congress that reform is best taken by degrees, there is not yet ecough psychic distance betweeo the nation and the trauma of Watergate for the electorate to have lost its skepticism about politicians, even those it chooses to lead it. Given this mood of the voters, the special prose-cutor is an idea whose time has not yet Dassed.

4½ Years Later, Carter's Reorganization of Georgia Government Is Controver

BY DAVID E. ROSENBAUM Special to The New York Time

ATLANTA-Four and a half years after it went into effect, Jimmy Carter's amhitious reorganization of the government of Georgia ia still so controversial that there is hardly anyone in the state gov-ernment who does not harbor strong feelings about it.

In the modern office buildings that surround the gold-domed Capitol, there are accres of young professionals with de-grees in such fields as systems analysis and public administration who say that the reorganization was the best thing to happen to Georgia since Eli Whitney inworkers, public health doctors and others who became entrenched in the old system, and they would not mind at all doing to Jininy Carter's reorganization what General Sherman did to Atlanta.

Among the politicians, the views are, if anything, even more intense. Some, like Speaker of the House Tom Murphy, a savvy country lawyer, fought pitched political battles against reorganization in the first place and hold lingering hopes even now of overturning it. Others, like Representative Sidney Marcus, chairman of the Health and Ecolngy Committee in the House, are determined to defend the Carter system.

Georgia was not the first state to reis significant because it was the hallmark over responsibility for highways, mass of Mr. Carter's term as Governnr. Since he began to run for the Presidency. Mr. Carter has suggested that thnse

Despite the intense controversy that still surrounds Mr. Carter's plan, the following points can be made:

The reorganization did not result in smaller state hudget or a reduction in other actions gave the Governor more state employment, but there were some control over the state's bureaucracy.

economies and the rate of growth of the hureaucracy was slowed. GOne creature of reorganization, a new

Department of Human Resources, has had serious administrative problems and has become the focal point for attacks against the entire project.

The functions and problems of the state and Federal governments are so dissimilar that it is impossible to draw conclusions from the Georgia experience about what Mr. Carter might want to do in Washington, but the broad philosophy that was followed here could be applied to the Federal Government.

But elsewhere here, and out around the state, from Valdosta in the south to Clayton in the north, there are social The unorthodox political tactics that Washington if he was elected President.

Cut to 22 Departments

When Mr. Carter became Governor in January 1971, there were 300 separate state agencies, most of them tiny and not even hudgeted but some that were almost private fieldoms for the persons nr special interests who ran them. Under the Carter plan, some agencies were abolished and others were consolidated and, in the end, there were 22 overall departments, the heads of which report directly to the Governor.

For instance, a Department of Natural Resources was created, and the Game and Fish Commission, the Department of transit and airports. A Department of Administrative Services was set up to handle purchasing, who wondered what kind of President he might be should "look at the sort of Governor I was." And, time and again, the has told his audiences, "If you don't want to reorganize the Federal Govern-control and oversight over the other de-ment, don't vote for me."

Mines, Mining and Geology, the State Park Department and 30 other agencies

Mr. Carter's supporters say that the difference of the country, the state's Medicaid pro-additional authority enabled him, for in-stance, to prevent the state from granting road-huilding contracts to favorites of with corruption and inefficiency. certain bureaucrats. His opponents say that the principal effect was to permit the Governor and his immediate associates to meddle in affairs that should have been settled at a lower level.

There is no douht that some money was saved and some payroll positions were eliminated by centralizing administrative operations and hy depositing state funds in hanks that offered the state funds in nanks that offered the bighest interest rates. But in Mr. Carter's four years as Governor, the annual hudg-et rose by 58.5 percent to $1.675 hillion and the number of state employees increased by nearly 8,000. Mr. Carter's supporters argue that those figures would have been even higher had it had not been for reorganization. Such a contention is plausible but impossible to prove. By far the most controversial aspect of the reorganization was the establishment of the Department of Human Re-sources, under which all the government's health and welfare functions were consolidated. The doctors who controlled the old State Board of Health were infuriated, and the social workers said they were eing made into bureaucrats.

Political Scapegoat' "We've had problems, tough problems,

Ford Plans 10-Day Campaign Blitz in About 13 States After the Debate

By RICHARD HALLORAN Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 - President Ford's political strategists said today that he planned to spend the last 10 days of the election campaign away from Washington on an intensive blitz designed to help defeat Jimmy Carter, his Democratic opponent.

Ron Nessen the White House press secretary, told reporters this morning that Mr. Ford was going on the road after the third and final televised debate with Mr. Carter on Friday and would not return to Washington until alection day, Nov.

To take the vacation of a lifetime, you don't have to save for a lifetime.

Or to take a business trip, you don't have to have a lavish expense account. Because now Pan Arn is offering low fall air fares to 18 cities all over Europe.

Bargains on fares.

Starting with our regular economy fares, which are especially good for people on business trips since they have no restrictions, you can save from 13% to 21% over regular summer economy fares.

And we have more low fares that . can save you even more than the low fall economy fares.

For example, our 14/21-day fares. If you can stay at least 14 days and not more than 21, you can save up to 22% more.

Then there're our 22/45 day fares. If you're lucky enough to have that much time for Europe, you can save 30% to 40% more.

And last, our Budget Fares. Which were very low to begin with and are even lower now. Because you can save about 50% over fall economy fares. All you have to do is buy your ticket 2 months in advance and spend 22 to 45 days vacationing in Europe. (Which should be easy enough.) Naturally, a fare that can save you so much is subject to other conditions and restrictions regarding travel dates and itinerary changes. Your travel agent can give you all the details.

The flights are regularly scheduled ones. On our comfortable 747s, you'll get a choice from 3 entrees in economy. And every flight has 2 movies to choose from ($2.50 per headset in economy).

Bargains on tours.

Of course our fall bargains apply to our tour prices also.

One-Weekers. Two-Weekers. Three Weekers. London Show Tours. Fly/Drives.

Pan Am has tours to just about any place in Europe. For just about any budget. Just ask your travel agent about Pan Am's World tours to Europe.

Use the American Express Card:

Just tell your travel agent or our ticket agent that you want to pay for your Pan Am fall bargain vacation with the American Express Card.

You can even extend your payments with the American Express Card "Sign & Fly" or "Sign & Travel" plans.

If you don't have a card, you can pick up an application wherever the American Express Card is welcomed. Or you can apply for one by calling toll-free (800) 528-8000.

Dr. I ipscemb said that be was influ-enced by Dr. Linus Pauling when he was a graduate student at the Califor-nia Institute of Technology. Dr. Pauling has won two Nobel prizes—the Chem istry and Peace prizes.

The Lipscomb ranch-style house on Woodfall Road in Belmont, Mass., contains the principal components needed in a musical atelier—musicians. A skilled clarinetist who plays in chamber music groups, Dr. Lipscomb often per-forms in the family's living room. His married daughter, Dorothy, plays the cello, His son, James, studying computer science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, plays the French horn.

When Mrs. Lipscomb was asked whether she played a musical instru-ment, she replied, "No I pour tea." The prize-winning scientist is often seen on the tennis court, where his perfectionist tendencies lead him to 'take lessons," his wife, Mary Adele, said in a telephone interview.

Dr. Lipscomb graduated from the University of Kentucky and obtained his doctorate in chemistry in 1946 at the California Institute of Technology. He later joined the University of Minnesota and in 1959 moved to Harvard. He has been awarded more than a score of prizes for his contributions in chemistry.

Goesta Ekspong, professor of physics at Stockholm University and an academy member, referred to the laureates' work as one of the greatest discoveries in the field of elementary particle physics, and said it had changed the work style of all the laboratories throughout the world that have the means to chase these particles.

Discoveries Announced in 1974

Dr. Ekspong said it was amazing that Dr. Richter and Dr. Ting were able to discover the same particle completely in-dependently so close together in time. It takes years merely to prepare the equipment for experiments of this kind. Announcements of the discoveries were made in November 1974.

The new particle has properties that do not show a kinship with existing parti-cles, Dr. Ekspong said, adding that it is drastically new, with a long life on a microcosmic scale. Its life span is 1,000 times as long as it reasonably should be, considering its other properties. This in-dicated that its inner structure was new.

The academy citation said that many The academy citation self that many new elementary particles had been dis-covered in the last 15 years, and that these showed a kinship to one another in groups or families. The new particle; called "psi" by Professor Richter and the "J" particle by Professor Ting, is some-thing separate and new and has formed the beginning of a new family of its own the beginning of c new family of its own, the citation stated.

It went on to say that the discovery and meaning in chemical had opened a new field of research, one that would utimately reveal whether there was anything further within these particles, thought to be the smallest withing blocks of meature building blocks of matter.

cial property called "charm." Dr. Ekspong noted that a psi cannot be constructed by any combination of the existing three quarks. So the discovery means that either the whole idea of the existence of quarks is wrong or that there must be a fourth quark, he said. Dr. Lipscomb, a 56-year-old professor at the Gibbs Chemical Laboratory at Harward, was cited hy the academy for his studies on the structure of boranes illuminating problems of chemical bonding. Spokesmen for the academy said it was the first time in a long time that the chemistry prize had been awarded for a discovery in pure inorganic chemistry.

Professor Richter called his discovery the "psi" particle. Another physicist 3,000 miles away called his discovery the "J" particle. But both atomic particles turned out to be the same and each man discovered that his discovery was identical with that of the other man's, And so, for their joint discovery, achieved independently two years ago, the two were awarded the Nobel Prize in Physics yesterday, Dr. Richter, at the Stanford Nuclear Accelerator in California, a'ong with Dr. I'muel Ting at the Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island, had discovered a now subatomic particle with unique qualities, a feat discribed by one Nobel as "the greatest discovery ever in the field of elementary particles." No Practicality Now But Dr. Richter described it differently. Relaxing in a chair, dressed in sports shirt, slacks, jacket and blue-and-white striped sneakers, be said: "In terms of practical application right now, it's got none. But, like all discoveries in science, it has always happened before that the more man learned about the universe, the more he could do. The significance is that we have learned something more about the structure of the universe." It is rare for the Nobel Prize in Physics to be awarded so soon after the scientific event that earned the accolade. And in answer to a questioner who asked if be were surprised at winning the prize so quickly, Dr. Richter replied: "To be honest with you, I was not surprised. Yes, it usually takes longer, hut it turned out that my work and Ting's work provided instant confirmation of our individual findings."

Dr. Ting was in Geneva yesterday when he was told that he had won, with Dr. Burton Richter, the Nobel Prize in Physics for their work in discouring subsucher particles discovering subnuclear particles. Looking relaxed in a tieless white shirt, sweater and windbreaker and plaid slacks, the 40-year-old physicist stopped his work in his CERN lab to meet with reporters.

"She is happy." Profes or Ting re-plied when asked how his wife in Lexington sounded when he spoke to her by telephone after learning of the Nobel award. "Me, too," he added with a big smile.

Dr. Ting, a professor of physics at Massachusetts institute of Technology, and a team of physicists conducted their research in 1974 at the Brookhaven National Laboratory at Upton, L.I., where they generated a new atomic particle by bombarding station-ary targets with beams of protons. Their discovery of the particle was almost simultaneous with the independent discovery of the same type of particle by Dr. Richter's group at the Stanford Linear Accelerator some

It has often been said that gold is the metal of kings.

Well, it's not the metal of kings. And it hasn't been that for a long, long time. Because once gold began to be put into coins, it became the metal of quite a lot of people.

Today half of the world's gold is owned by literally millions of individuals. And in France, in Germany, in England. even in Switzerland, there's a large middle class who have bought gold coins.

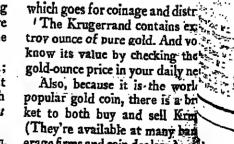

These gold coin owners all have one thing in common: the knowledge that gold, through fifty centuries, has been man's hedge against monetary uncertainty. There is surely enough of that uncer-' only a small preminm

His father, Earl, embarrasses him profoundly. Earl is a born loser, a farcl-cal figure, an unsuccessful composer whose wile has run off with another man. If Virgil could only accept his. father's absurdity, embrace it, he is convinced that he could authenticate himself, as the saying goes. Bot his fastidiousoess, his compulsive good faste, prevent this, and so he lives in a parentless present a man without a parentless present, a man without a past, without roots, like a tree growing in a box nn the terrace of a penthouse:

In "Preservatioo Hall," Scott Spencer describes Virgil and his father very well. At a concert of Earl's music, Vir-gil suffers the terrible disparity be-tween his father's pretensions and his achievement. If he had been someone else's father, Virgil might have granted him a grudging admiration as some sort of bero of awkwardness, but nne's nwn father is such a delicate subject that father is such a delicate subject that Virgil must experience every humilia-tioo as a family deht. Here is how he sums up his father's "experimental" music: "There was something grand and assertive about Earl's compositions and you felt at once lonely aod be-sieged when you beard them. They were pieces to take the color out of stain glass, something to remind you that there is oo afterlife." When he is with his father, Virgil says, "there was always within me the shadow of temptation to hurst into tears, to beg father is such a delicate subject that temptation to hurst into tears, to beg him to change his mind, to change his heart, to change utterly in every way."

Not Much Improved

"Things are not much improved when Earl marries Lillian. As Virgil sees her, "most of Lillian's manner and gestures belonged to no specific era, or belooged to a compendium of them all. She had the slightly wrecked, cough-stunned eyes of a pre-war libertine. She had the hang-it-all hairdo of an aging flap-per nihilist and the ardent red mouth and plaintively gesturing hands of the Free the Scottsborn 30's and the batlike attire of the be-bop 40's. ..." Virgil's wife, Tracy, is part of his

He feels thet he has not "earned" his pleasant existence, that he has been merely lucky. Some puberty rite, he believes, has been omitted in his grow-ing up, some painful confrontation with reality that would have enabled him to break throngh to something beyood. Way of life. His father, Earl, embarrasses him

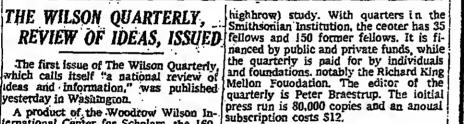

Lillian's soo, Tommy, is the catalyst of "Preservation Hall." While Mr. Spen-cer never quite succeeds in fleshing him out, Tommy is precisely what Vir-gil and Tracy need to test their moral fiber. Tommy is a glamour hoy of nega-tion and social protect An artistor for tion and social protest. An agitator for the National Association for the Rights of Prisoners, he has all the moral superiority of a man who breaks the law for what he regards as a good cause. He was horn angry, as Virgil was horn lucky. He regards his anger as a state of grace, and Tracy is innocent cough to sympathize with him. Virgil does not: He has decided to resign himself to living happily ever after with Tracy and wants octhing to do with causes. Besides, if he began taking up causes, this would inevitably bring him up against his father.

Revenge on Childhood

Tommy's mistress, Melissa, is one of those rich girls whose adult behavior in ose rich girls whose adult behavior is simply a reveoge on, or ao ioversion of, her childhood. She is even less fully realized than Tammy, but, like him, she is well sketched. When Tommy aod Melissa intrude on Virgil and Tracy during an idyllic holiday in their newly acquired Maine retreat, we feel that Mr. Spencer has placed his hero and heroine in the impossible position that heroine in the impossible position that has eluded them all their lives. Tommy's grandiloqueot silliness is a modern echo of Earl's antiquated avant-gardism. Melissa's character is made up of all the options Tracy has rejected.

Yet Virgil and Tracy both yearn, in their respective ways, for the dignity of tragedy. Without it, they cannot be sure that their happiness is serious or significant. Is it enough to love? Can you be a self-respecting contemporary Americao without being committed to card-carrying hatred of some kind? What does happiness owe to misery?

Not everycae will be content with Mr. Spencer's rather obscure working out of these themes at the end of "Preservation Hall," but there are quite a few good things in the book to chew on, and for this we should be grateful.

The Environmental Issues

The protection of the environment is a major concern for many citizens and for the nation's future. Despite its importance, neither Presidential candidate has devoted much attention to the issue.

.. In the light of their records and their public statements, President Ford and Governor Carter stand as almost polar opposites in the environmental field.

The Ford Record

The Ford record has some bright spots. The President, for example, resisted the efforts of Western sheep raisers to return to the dreadful practice of poisoning predators on public lands. His Administration has also tried to achieve meaningful international controls on the destructive whaling trade. He endorsed keeping the New River wild and undammed. More recently, he signed the Toxic Substances Control Act.

But these positive actions often seemed motivated by political considerations rather than geouine conviction. Thus, Mr. Ford announced his New River position while in hot pursuit uf voters in the North Carolina primary against Rooald Reagan. His signature on the toxic substances law came after the Administration had supported many amendments in the House and Senate designed to weaken the measure.

Negative actions in the Ford record overshadow the few bright patches. The President has twice vetoed strip-mining control bills. He has opposed land-use planning legislation. He has pressed for a weakening of water pollution regulations and for extended deadlines and lower standards of air pollution compliance.

The Ford Administration has promoted the expansion of nuclear power with single-minded determination and too little attention to either the risks or the alternatives. Mr. Ford has chosen Secretaries of the Interior and of Agriculture with a notable lack of sympathy for conservation. As a result, those departments have followed policies with regard to logging, mining and grazing on the public lands that consistently favor exploitative over-use.

The Carter Record

Mr. Carter's record on environmental issues while serving as Governor of Georgia was notably good. He hlocked construction by the Army Corps of Engineers of the proposed Sprewell Bluffs Dam on the Flint River --- the last free-flowing river in the Piedmoot region of Georgia. By the time Governor Carter intervened aggressively against the dam, planning for it had been advanced and had received strong support from previous governors, the state Legislature and the Georgia Congressional delegation.

Governor Carter similarly took the initiative in opposing stream channelization projects that had previously led to the destruction of many streams and the ecologically harmful draining of wetlands. Under his leadership, Georgia established a Heritage Trust Commission to acquire and preserve important historical, cultural and ecological areas. He also reorganized the state's environmental agencies into a Department of Natural Resources, with an increased budget.

In the primaries earlier this year and in his policy statements this fsll, Mr. Carter has stressed the need for energy cooservation, urged intensified research programs in solar energy and in clean-burning techniques for coal, and called for a lower priority for nuclear development. He has promised to sign a strip-mine control bill similar to those that Mr. Ford vetoed.

There have been persistent complaints that on many issues the two Presidential candidates have sounded alike. On the range of important environmental issues, however, voters have an unusually clear and welldefined choice.

Health Care Crisis

The demand of the Emergency Financial Control Board for a "restructuring" of the deficit-ridden Health and Hospitals Corporations touches only one aspect of a broader health care crisis which threatens to overwhelm New York City's already overburdened hudget.

Total spending on health care in the city, public and private, soared from $2.5 hillion in 1966 to $6.7 billion last year, according to a new Columbia Universioner Bowie Kuhn's urging and with the apparent encouragement of a $700,000 bonus from NBC. But anyone who watched the players trying to keep warm with hot water bottles in the ondeck circle in a game that started at 43 degrees, and falling, knew that high Nielson rating or not, these were not the conditions for a championship haseball game. Reds manager Sparky Anderson put it best when he said, "I really wish they would think about us too. There's no way a player can swing a bat properly. in these conditions. It's impossible,"

Instead of limiting the misguided practice of playing World Series games at night, organized baseball once again caved in to television to the detriment of the players, the fans and the game. It is the Commissiooer's job to worry about such things as the integrity of the game and the health and welfare of the players. Unfortunately, Bowie Kuhn took his eye off the ball this time, as usual.

Dobbs can never be born again.

To the Editor:

The first week in November could be eventful for the State of Georgia. On Nov. 3, they might celebrate the election of a Georgian as U.S. President. And three days later, to the State of Georgia could go the honor of becoming the first state to kill a human being following the 1976 Supreme Court decision that capital revenge (I cannot call it punishment) is permissible. A Georgia judge has ordered Nov. 6 as the date for exterminating Wilburn Wiley Dobbs, 27, who killed a grocer in 1973.

Now that the Supreme Court bas given the green light to death, the U.S. can hurry to restore the peculiar medium of justice favored by other progressive nations such as the Soviet Union and the Republic of South Africa. The Times of Oct. 5 reported that the Georgia electric chair has already been rewired for use.

Obviously, for the honor of being first, no time must be lost. Other states also have crowded death rows. It was reported in July that Florida is conducting seminars for condemned men

Flu-Shot Variation

To the Editor:

In view of the oumber of deaths following the administration of the swine flu vaccine to persons who were, apparently, healthy enough to. come for the vaccination, we can no longer dismiss the possibility of a causal relationship between the injections and the deaths,

Granted the need for immunization, the risks could be greatly reduced by administering the vaccine over a period of time in several smaller amounts, rather than in one single high dose. The resulting immunity might even be enhanced.

Owing to the vastly increased cost and administration problems involved in such a procedure, it might be practical to apply it only to high-risk groups, such as the aged.

sity study. The city's share in health care expenditures, including payments to private hospitals and practitioners through Medicare and Medicaid, quadrupled during the same period to $1.2 billion last year-17 percent of all local tax revenues.

Management failures in the Health and Hospitals Corporation contribute to these runaway costs and must be corrected. But the shortcomings of the corporation are part of a larger problem that can be solved only through comprehensive reform of the entire health care system, as recommended last week by the new, federally mandated Health Systems Agency.

Noting "the paradox of a health care system which contains both enormous waste and huge unmet needs," the H.S.A. in a lengthy report called for:

• Division of the city into new, semi-autonomous health care delivery regions.

• Use of the enormous leverage enjoyed by the state through its power to establish reimbursement rates and license facilities in order to "encourage" hospitals (public and private) within each, region to coordinate their services and eliminate costly duplication.

• A "fundamental restructuring" of reimhursemeot formulas to discourage wasteful practices and promote alternatives to hospitalization.

· Decentralization of the Health and Hospitals Corporation system to give greater responsibility and control to individual hospital administrators, insure more equitable sharing of public funds with the municipal hospitals, and provide the "fiscal relief" necessary to prevent "catastrophic" cutbacks imposed by the city's financial plan and to buy time for the essential reorganization.

Regrettably, the report's final recommendations appear to ignore both the city's and state's fiscal problems which make any additional funding for the municipal hospitals highly unlikely. The proposals, moreover, contain a note of excessive protectiveness of a municipal system whose administrative and other shortcomings account for much of the "enormous waste" in the overall system. The role of the municipal hospital in a new, comprehensive system needs to be more thoroughly explored, especially in light of developments in health care financing which raise questions about the original case for public hospitals.

Nevertheless, the H.S.A. recommendations, in general, confirm the findings of a long series of similar studiessome 30 in the last 25 years. A drastically changed fiscal situation no longer permits the old "file and forget" attitude brought to such reports in the past. The waste of a chaotic system has become insupportable. It undermines the city's economic future, without solving its health and hospital problems.

Crack in Nuclear Door

Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko's new offer to discuss on-site inspection adds some credibility to Moscow's old proposal to ban all underground duclear weapons tests. But major obstacles still hinder a comprehensive test ban. Russia's insistence that all five nuclear weapons states must agree is a dead-end street; France and China have refused even to join in the Soviet-American-British ban on atmospheric tests, which China continues to set off.

An even higger obstacle is Moscow's refusal to ban civilian as well as military nuclear explosions. So-called peaceful nuclear explosions (PNE's) could be used to test weapons. The United States, unlike the Soviet Union, has abandooed as impractical nuclear explosions for earth-moving and other engineering purposes.

Nevertheless, the new Soviet proposal could open the way for negotiations to reduce the high ceilings in the 1974 and 1976 Soviet-American threshold test-ban treaties, which "limit" military and civilian underground nuclear explosions to 150 kilotons, ten times the yield of the Hiroshima bomb.

This high threshold, which would permit both sides to continue most weapons development, has aroused criticism in the United States, and Senate ratification is In doubt. The chief argument in favor of the two treatles has been Moscow's acceptance for the first time in the PNE treaty of the principle of on-site inspection, a significant arms control breakthrough. If Soviet willingness now to extend such inspection to nuclear weapons explosions leads to further negotiations, a new effort can be made to ban all nuclear explosions or, failing that, to reduce the 150-kiloton ceiling.

A substantially lower threshold could impede the qualitative arms race. It would not significantly reinforce the efforts to curb proliferation of nuclear weapons; India's first underground explosion had a yield of only 15 kilotons. But a comprehensive test ban, halting all. nuclear explosions in the United States and the Soviet Union, would lay a basis for moral suasion-and even sanctions-against explosions elsewhere.

The Pentagon, which wants to continue American nuclear weapons tests, has seized on Soviet rejection of on-site inspection in the past to block efforts to achieve a comprehensive test ban. The Ford Administration has gone along with this view. But former Governor Carter, relying on predominant scientific opinion, has proposed a five-year moratorium on all nuclear tests, arguing that national means of verification would be sufficient to distinguish between earthquakes and most small weapons tests.

The Soviet offer to discuss oo-site inspection for suspected weapons tests should close this gap and bring about a comprehensive test-ban negotiation regardless of which Presidential candidate wins the election,

Debates on TV: 'Questionable Shortcuts'

To the Editor:

The Times is too convinced that televised debates make great good sense in democratic politics to deal forthrightly with the unnerving relationship between the way the 1976 Presidential and Vice-Presidential encounters were brought about and the legacy of Watergate.

For surely this year's Great Debates are the function of gross expediency (the essence of Watergate), of a willingoess to look the other way while not only the spirit but perhaps, too, the letter of the law are at best avoided and at worst evaded. Because they take us where we want to go, questionable shortcuts in law and public policy have been applauded by those searching out ways to circumvent or interpret into oblivion statutory requirements they haven't managed to change legally.

Still very much with us, the "eoual time" provision of Section 315 of the Communications Act requires that when any candidates for public office are afforded access to the American people on the electronic media, dil other legally qualified candidates for the same office must be afforded precisely the same access.

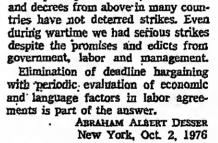

Not just major, or "significant." or rich, or powerful, or media-favored candidates alone, but all such candidates. For "equal time" means just that. And no amount of made-to-order

"reinterpretation" designed to get us what we want without hardly trying will belie the fact that, like it or not, the law remains on the books. Cheers, then, to the League of Women Voters, which stages the debates (then disingenuously "permits" them to be covered by radio and television as what we all know they are not: independent. "bona fide" news events); cheers, too, to the columnists and editorial writers who first eodorsed this grand deception eight years ago; cheers to all who want the electorate to take the candidates' measure side by side. But at what a price!

For who can deny that public morality-the majesty of this great nation-has been further subverted in this manipulation of the law? Precisely in the spirit of Watergate-take what we want to take, do what we want to do, just so long as we can get away with it-too many of us applaud these media events almost as if they occur because we had both the conviction and the popular support necessary to suspend or repeal the law that makes them illegal, instead of winking it out of existence. We deserve better of ourselves.

Kate Isn't in P.S. 87. Here's Why:

By Betsy Haggerty

One aunny day in October 1975, my daughter Kate became thoughtful on the way to school. "If the money strike is over," she asked earnestly as she walked up the stairs to ber kindergarten class at P.S. 87 in Manhattan, "can I stay in this school all the way to fifth grade? I really love it bere."

"Of course," I said, "if the money strike is over.".

But, wheo the doors to P.S. 87 opened this year, Kate Haggerty did not go through them. Like thousands of other New York City children, Kate is a public school drop-out-and the "money strike," as she ao aptly described the drastic cuthack in educational funds and services, is the reason wby.

So what? What difference does one little kid make to a city of eight million people? Not much, maybe, But Kate's story is not unique. What we have on the West Side and in other parts of the city is an epidemic of middleclass abandonment of the schools and, in some cases, of the city itself.

This year, according to Board of Educatino budget figures the enrollment of the public elementary and junior bigh schools in our local district is down by 1,500. Some of the decline in student population is of course due to demographic changes, but a good part of the drop represents children who were pulled out of the schools. I can name six youngsters from Kate's kindergarten class of 25 who are now in private schools.

And those figures are just the tip of the iceberg. My daughter's pre-educatioo dollars is indeed a "money strike."

Kate did have wonderful experiences in public school, but I have to consider that a matter of luck. She was assigned to one of those rare, gifted teachers who, in slightly more than two bours a day, was able to give something special to each child. The class was a marvelous amalgam of black, white and Hispanic children and it worked together as one heppy, cohesive whole,

Still, I cannot sing the praises of the public schools. My confidence was wounded early. In the summer of 1975 -after we had turned dowo a place for Kate at a very fine private school -I learned she might not have a place in kindergarten at all. The Board of Education, I heard, bad suggested that , kindergarten be eliminated or at least cut back to save costs. Kate did eventually get into kindergarteo but the move came too late to restore my faith in the system.

There were other problems, too. Two years ago, when I first visited P.S. 87, it was a grand school with small classes and innovative enrichmeot programs. Last year, budget cuts wiped out music, art and poetry programs and necessitated large classes. When I learned the prospects for this year were worse, I mailed Kate's applications to private schools .

City officials. may say they agree that the situatioo in the public schools is pittful. But theo they ask us to choose between education and police ad the protectioo. I don't be

And that is what it all hoils down to. No one acems to give a damn. For our family, the decision to flee the city schools was emotionally wrenching. It forced me to abandon a cause I had believed in for many years-because I could oot in all good conscience make a political statement with my daughter. It forced Kate to leave behind good friends in a school that is bappily integrated both economically and ethoically. (In her oew school, the childreo will be richer and whiter, and I am concerned that this will give ber an unreal sense of the world.) And fically, the decision forced me to give up a field I loved-journalism-for one that pays better.

But, for $2,300 a year, I get a cootract that guarantees that Kate will have small classes, art, music and library programs and, most important, that school policy will be hased on educational consideratioos - not bureaocratic whims.

New York City seems intent on destroying itself. While other cities are working to integrate their schools, New York is forclog middle-class children out of its schools and providing precious little in the way of education to those children who do remain. By abandoning its children, New York City Is abandoning. Its own future.

Campaign Down Upside

By Russell Baker

The election campaign oow being held in China is quite different from ours. For one thing, the campaign has nothing to do with the electioo.

It is always like this in Communist countries. They are progressive. They don't risk letting people get confused by campaign rhetoric and meybe maklog the wrong choice. They went to help people avoid error. For this reason they elways hold the electioo first and save the campaign until the resuits are in. This is why they are called people's republics.

It is hard to tell when the Chinese electioo was actually held. Or where. Or who voted. This is because public life in Communist countries is a very private business. A few establishment dandies find themselves sitting around the club one day and ooe of them says, "Why don't we have the election right now and get it out of the way so we can have a oice election campaign and let the people have some fun putting up posters and banging the losers in effigy?"

It is probably more formal than this. I don't know. Nobody knows except the hig shots who do the voting. It isn't eveo clear that the losing side in the election knows anythiog until people with bayonets turn up at the froot door and tell them they can't leave the house to go to the drugstore.

In any case, what happened in the Chinese election is that somewhere, sometime recently, somebody elected Hua Kuo-feog to Mao Tse-tung's old iob. This was a tremendous triumph for the people because Mr. Hua's opposition was composed of "dogs" who had formed an "anti-party plot group."

It is not clear whether these coospiratorial and subversive beasts actually took part in the voting. In Communist elections, nobody knows whet platform the losers ran on until the election is over and the campaign begins. And the purpose of the campaign, of course, is to persuade the people that they are lucky the election saves them from some extremely lowgrade politicians.

Since the aim is to make people delight in their good fortune, the losers are not allowed to take part in the campaign, except for such passive activities as beiog jailed or buried.

People accustomed to American politics will probably wonder why the losers don't defend themselves in the campaign, why they doo't issue press releases, go on television or send wires to the winner refuting charges that they were subversive and bestlal. Ouestions of tins sort show an ignoraoce of the function of the election campaign in Communist societies.

The goal of Commuoist politicians is the happiness of the people. For a loser to come right out in public and charge thet the people's elected leaders are slanderers, would confuse the people and create unhappy doubts about their governmeots. Under the Marxist code, it would be an unsportiog perversion of the campaign for e loser to deny that he deserved total and utter defeat.

The all too buman temptetioo to violate the code hy calling the winner an incompetent lout may, however, be too strong for the purest Marxist bosom to resist if occasion arises. To guerd egainst this temptatioo, which would taint the campaign, losers often keep close company with turnkeys and policemen ready to remiod them of their duty when hile would make them speak indiscreetly.

In aome cases, losers are permitted, limited speaking roles during the campaign. The late Stalin occasionally permitted his opponents to reveal themselves as traitors and rotteo human beings who deserved to be shot., Stalin usually obliged them. When Beria ran against Malenkov, Khruit shchev and Molotov io Moscow and lost." however, he was urged oot to say as word io the campaign which followed,-He was, however, allowed to be shot,, for his electoral loss.

Another curiosity of Communist election campaigns is the important role assigned to bistorians and undertakers. In the Americao campaign, the ghost writer rearranges contemporary.; fact. In the Communist campaign, the historian is kept just as husy rearranging history.

When a new election proves that some dead politician, long e model of human splendor, was in fact a murderous maniac who almost destroyed, the people, the historian immediately. sits down and starts revising all the history books. At the same time, the undertaker must remove the splendidly displayed mummy of the great one, now a mere burn, from its public museum case and tuck it away discreetly under common earth.

If the next election proves the last election wrong, it's back to the type, writer and another re-write for the historian. So far we have not yet seen a mummy go back to the display case. but there are always plenty of other mortuary chores for the campaign, undertaker. In these countries it is very rare for a defeated candidate to linger on like Bryan, Dewey, or Nixon, to get a second crack at the big job, g In Communist elections the campaigns are too hard on the loser.

Is Poverty Abolished?

By Harry Schwartz

Has the Uoited States abolished, or elmost abolished, poverty and just failed to realize that fact?

The official recorder of poverty in the United States, the Bureau of the Census, doesn't think so. Late last month, it reported that there are almost 26 million poor people in this country, an increase of 2.5 million or almost 11 percent, just during 1975 alone. How can anyone talk about the abolition of poverty in the face of such seemingly precise, clear data?

Yet there are respected observers who argue, explicitly or implicitly, that the Bureau of the Census is badly misleading the public, that we are dealing here with a situation that leads to the old aphorism about there being three kinds of lies: "lies, damn lies and statistics."

For example there is the recent comment by Prof. Sar A. Levitan of George Washington University:

"If poverty is a lack of basic needs, we have almost eliminated poverty in the United States. We should be proud of this accomplishment; we should sing 'Hallelujah!' Instead, we hide the facts because of Administration policy." . Professor Levitan is not alone. In a recent article in the magazine The Public Interest, Prof. Edgar K. Browning of the University of Virginia wrote:

... the average poor family in 1973 had an income that was approximately 30 percent above the poverty line. In terms of the average income of officially poor families, there is practically no poverty - statistically speaking - in the Uoited States today, and indeed there has not been for several-years." ------

The Census Bureau says there are almost 26 million poor people in this country. Professors Levitan and Browning, working entirely independently, seem to be arguing that we've at least broken the back of the poverty problem and that public perception of the matter is gloomier than the reality.

As ia often the case in such matters, the difference turns out to be a matter of definition. The Census Bureau'a definition of poverty is such as to maximize the number of people in the poverty statistics. But a more realistic definition gives a brighter picture.

The Census Bureau defines poverty in terms of money income alone. Thus a non-farm family of four in 1975 was "poor" if its money income was $5,500 or less. What the critics are pointing out, however, is that the people the Census Bureau considers poor are the prime beneficiaries of many types of important non-money income - food stamps, housing subsidies and Medicaid, to oame but three. These receipts are nonexistent as far as the Census Bureau data are concerned. A poor family that gets $1,000 in food stamps will find them useful in the grocery store and at meal time, but the Census statistics pretend they doo't exist. Moreover such benefits in kind rather than in money have been increasing rapidly in receot years.

A Census expert, defending his bureau's data, pointed out that "We don't know how to value income in kind."

But other people seem to be able to do what the Census Bureau finds impossible. The Rand Corporation, for example, recently made a study of New York City's welfare population and it seemed to have no trouble taking account of Medicaid, food stamps and day-care services. As a result, the Rand Corporation reported that New York City's welfare families receive cash, goods and services that lift 80 to 90 percent of them above the poverty line. The Rand study reported that io 1974 an average 3.3-person welfare family in New York City received the equivalent of $6,000, or roughly $1,000 above the then four-person family poverty level of about $5,000.

If the Rand Corporation can take account of different types of income a welfare family receives-in money and in kind-why can't the Census? The issue is more than a statistical quibble. The problem of poverty is a serious one that deserves the highest level of rational analysis and discussion. For the United States Government to issue data on this matter that are as incomplete and-for most peopleas misleading as the Bureau of the Census data are is to perform a disservice and to hinder and to prejudice the informed discussion that is needed. This problem of incomplete statistics leading to misleading conclusions is not confined to the poverty field. In the debate over national health insurance, for example, some people like to cite statistics about tens of millions of Americans without private health insurance. Such citations easily lead the unsophisticated reader to suppose that these people have no financial aid to receive medical care. But it is precisely to help many millions of underprivileged persons that Medicaid exists and spends many billions of dollars annually, a fact that too often gets lost in some debates.

A noted political scientist investigates the charge that television is responsible.

By Ithiel de Sola Pool

10C

486N

Why do so many Americans fail to vote in Presidential elections? Is TV responsible?

Pollsters and politicians are predicting that perhaps less than half of those eligible will cast a ballot on Election Day. Since 1960, in fact, more and more voters have been staying home during national elections, and TV is often blamed for that trend,

Some evidence supports that charge. Note that a child who was just seven years old in 1950 (when TV sets began to be found in American homes) would have been able to cast his first vote in 1964, the year in which the decline in voting began. At each election since then, another "class" of the TV generation has graduated into the electorate. And at each election, fewer people turn out to vote. The web of circumstantial evidence can be drawn tighter. Young people-the TV generation-vote less than their elders. In 1972 many commentators talked about a youth crusade for Sen. George McGovern, . the Democratic candidate for President. Yet, only 48 per cent of first voters 18 through 20 voted, while 71 per cent of people 45 through 64 voted. The case against TV has been made best. by Michael J. Robinson, a professor at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., and Paul Weaver, associate editor of Fortune magazine, in a review of "Television as a Social Force," done for the Aspen Institute's Program on Communications and Society. Getting the news from TV, they point out, is different from getting it from newspapers. When you read a newspaper, your eye skips to the matters in which you are interested; you just bypass items about matters that you do not understand. When watching news on TV, on the other hand, there is no way to skip around. You see each news clip in the order that the network feeds it to you.

Well, what of that? Doesn't it help people learn when they watch things that they do not understand and would otherwise skip over? "No," says Michael Robinson. He has performed an experiment in which he showed people a videotape on a complicated political issue that they did not understand. Their reaction was alienation. He showed them a controversial documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon." Most people were not persuaded one way or the other by it. They simply became angry and uninterested and wanted to have nothing to do with the mess. That, theorizes Robinson, is the way people react to watching political news that they did not choose for themselves-and which they do not feel able to evaluate. In the days when newspapers were the primary source of news, people read the statements of the candidates they already favored, not those of their opponents. Getting the news reinforced their political feelings and enthusiasms. Seeing news or political ads on TV, however, people are exposed to messages that undercut their enthusiasms. Seeing a politician from the opposite party making a good case rarely converts a viewer, but it can make him less assured in his views. He is likely to become less comfortable and less interested in politics.

It appears, therefore, that exposure to American politics through television can leave some viewers confused—and possibly discouraged from voting. But the case is not closed.

No jury of social scientists would rule TV guilty on the basis of the evidence so far presented. To decide what effect TV has had is like solving a detective-story problem. There are alternative explanations for the decline in voting. If we examine the evidence more closely, perhaps we will conclude that it is not TV that caused Americans to turn their backs on politics.

This is not the first time that voting has fallen off sharply for a series of elections. Back before 1890, as many as 80 per centof the eligible voters used to turn out to vote. Politics was the national sport in the small communities in which most Americans then lived. In many places women and blacks were not allowed to vote and were not counted in turnout figures. Then, in the early years of the present century, much changed in American life. Millions of new immigrants came to the country, and they did not all feel at home in voting. Women increasingly got the franchise, but to many of them it did not seem ladylike to vote. The reform movement came in and tightened up the conditions for: voting by requiring registration; the machines found it harder to get their cohorts out to vote early and often. So by 1924, the turnout was down to 48.9 per cent, a record low for this century.

But from 1920 to 1960, with a few breaks, there was a steady upswing in voting turnout. With Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal and the growth of unions, poor people began to feel that they had some voice in politics. The high point in voting in recent decades was the Kennedy-Nixon election of 1960 when 63 per cent of the public voted. Since then, the turnout has turned steadily downward. The cause may be not TV but, rather, the events that have taken place in the world since that time.

So there are two rival explanations for failing turnout at the polls. Maybe because of the way the news comes ac through TV and the other media. Maybe because of the discouraging state of the world.

Perhaps after Election Day we will find better indication of which theory is Several research studies are observing voters use the media in making up minds. Assassing killed Jack Kennedy, Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King. There were eight years of the Vietnam War. Then there was Watergate. Is there any wonder that people are disenchanted?

That can also help account for the lower voting turnout by the young than by their elders. Their elders got into the habit of voting in an era of better political feeling. New voters have always voted less than those with established voting habits. The normal low voting of new voters was reinforced, perhaps, by the unattractive mess of the political world when they reached the age for thinking about politics.

People who feel that they have some influence are most likely to vote. If they think that politicians will listen to them, they will be more interested in government activities. People with money, and therefore with

The sun scorches the hald pates of the bleached hills in the distance, siphons precious moisture from the irrigated acres of baking crops and stuns a stroller into near-somnambulism. It is siesta time on Kibbutz Afikim. The 1.400 residents here are snoozing to the hum of air conditioners. The community's small private zoo is slumped in a pastoral torpor, its two camels slack-jawed with ennui. Only a few uninhibited monkeys cavort. The Olympic-size pool and a diving pool, deserted, shimmer like

Afikim is one of the biggest and most successful of Israel's 227 communal communities, called kibbutzim. Others are also showing evidence of affluence. Still others, generally new, small and with younger populations, have more in common with the Afikim of the 1930's than the Afikim of today. The kibbutzim still are varied entities. Some 'are based on religious ties, some on political ties, some on rigid commitment to communal living of the simplest sort. Some, like Afikim, countenance hired labor, usually Arabs. Others, like Maagan Michael, condemn the notion of salaried laborers in its employ. Although the residents of the kihhutzim account for only about 3 percent of Israel's population of 3.5 million, they have had a strong impact on Israel's history, from important outputs in agriculture and industry to the development of many politicians and military leaders.

A Judge Rules '-person' Is Non Grata

Ellen Donna Cooperman went to court the other day in an effort to change her name to Cooperperson. She lost.

A State Supreme Court justice ruled that if he granted this request "it would bave serious repercussions perhaps throughout the entire country." In a decision citing a battery of possible name changes, Justice John F. Scileppi In Suffolk County polnted out, for example, that if this request was granted, someone named Jackson would change the name to Jackchild. A person called Manning would want the name to be Peopling. A woman named Carmen would insist on being called Carperson.

"The possibilities are virtually endless and in-creasingly inane," wrote Justice Scileppi. "This would truly be in the realm of nonsense." Name changes are usually routine. Names are changed by the filing of petitions in either Civil Court or State Supreme Court. Applicants must swear that they do not mean to defraud anyone and that the change has no other illegal motive. The petitioner said she planned to appeal, but would go on using the name Cooperperson, which the judge said was her right anyway. Mrs. Cooperman, who lives in Bahylon, L.I., and owns a feminist film company, gave as her reason that "she believes deeply in the feminist cause" and that the name Cooperperson "more properly reflects her sense of human equality than does the name Cooperman."

JAMES OSBORN, 70, A LITERARY SCHOLAR

Specialist in 17th-and 18th-Century English Literature, Was at Yale

By WERNER BAMBERGER

James M. Osborn, a Yale University English scholar and literary detective, died Sunday at Yale-New Haven Hospital. He was 70 years old and a resident of New Haven.

Mr. Osborn, a literary historian at Yale University from 1938 to 1972, was a specialist in 17th- and 18th-century Englisb literature. His title at Yale was research associate in English and curator of the James Marshall and Marie-Louise Osborn Collection, one of the leading private collections of literature of that period. It is in the school's Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library.

A graduate of Wesleyan Uoiversity, Mr. Osborne first turned to investment banking and then decided to go into literature, taking a master's degree at Columbia University.

Detective Work on Ballad

Among his feats as a literary detective were the discovery in 1964 of a hitherto unknown manuscript "Select Medita-tions," by Thomas Traherne, a 17thceotury mystic.

He also established that a ballad quoted by Shakespeare in "Much Ado About Nothing" had not been writteo by Shakespeare but predated the playwright hy about 100 years. It was Benedick's song, and Mr. Osborn managed to dis-cover a manuscript of the song.

And in 1956, st a rare book sale in London, he picked up a manuscript that turned out to be the earliest known autobiography in English, a work written io 1576 by an Eoglish composer, Thomas Whythorne.

Mr. Osborn's interests were not confined to English literature, a subject on and a sister, Hazel Osborn. which he wrote several books, including A memorial service at Yale is "Young Philip Sidney," "Dryden, Facts' beld some time next month.

and Problems," and "The Beginnings of Autobiography in England." In 1949, on his Whitiwind Hill Farm in Wallingford, Conn., he started breed-ing Holstein cattle and 20,000 of his Hol-stein cows are in herds throughout the country.

great charm, the mother of three girls, an inveterate booster of the kibbulz form of life and not at all averse to the affluence earned by ber toil and happy in her commitment to sharing the profits among the other members of the settlemeot. After several years of debate, Afikim receotly took a major step, voting to allow the children to sleep at home at night with their parents. A ballmark of the kibbutz movement has been the separation of children from adults except for prescribed visiting hours. "Now we oeed to huild more extensions oo bouses," Mrs. Kristal said.

Kibbutz members take all their meals in a dining ball, a major social center io the settlements. But changes are occurring, in part because of Afikim's increasing affluence. Although the ball fills up at breakfast and lunch, atteod-ance for the evening meal is down, particularly among those married couples whose young children now speed the nights at home.

Some Like to Cook at Home

'People bave small kitchenettes now," Mrs. Kristal said, adding that "soma women like to cook—you know, broil a fresh-caught fish with a little wine. It's nice."

On a receot evening a number of Afikim women were seen wearing loog skirts, their hair smartly done up, the evening air scented with their perfume. It was a contrast to the aterotyped image of the seodal-clad kibbutznik in khaki shorts.

Passing a bomh shelter, a familiar facility in Afikim and other Isrzeli set-tlements, Mrs. Kristal pointed to a sign advertising an art exhibit inside. "If there's to be peace we'd love to keep it a gallery," she said.

She passed a former bakery that is being cooverted into offices for engi-neers and architects. "Not enough peo-ple now want to learn baking," she said.

Afikim has Jews from 36 countries. including India, Argentina, the Soviet Union, Poland and Germany. As it has thrived, the advantages of the kinbutz have been shared. Thus the settlement's laundry is no sweatshop hut is neatly turned out and chilly with air conditioning. As profits increase, decisions about such things as purchasing cars and providing for long trips are made Afikim's size has also brought about change. "Io the beginning," Mrs. Kris-tal said, "it was a hig family. But now it's circles of families. You can't socialse with a thousand people."

Now 1 prefer the large community with all the possibilities it gives one. When we started we had other demands. We ennohled physical labor.

"I coosciously accept the change." Mr. Hofesh said. "If we weren't successful economically we'd have to say our way had failed. Life changes but not the principles, and though some leave, others come." He added: "Growing materialism has its perils. There is a price. We are trying to halt and do some soul-search-

Mr. Peppard, however, was at the Holiday Inn in Elmhurst campaigning for Jimmy Carter, whose wife, Rosalynn, was the reason for the luncheon. But she seemed temporarily overshad-owed by the rush of enthuslasm that greeted the actor.

Later on, in a busy day of campaigning in Queens and Nassau Counties, it was Mrs. Carter who captured the voters' interest as she shared a platform with the Democratic-Liberal can-didate for the United States Senate, Daniel P. Moynihan, and Borough Pres-Ident Donald R. Manes of Queens.

'Running Mate'

"Jimmy Carter has another running mate" in addition to Walter Mondale, Mr. Manes told the crowd. "She is running for First Lady. Make no mistake about it."

The accuracy of bis words was obvious to those who accompanied Mrs. Carter through a tiring day of nonstop campaigning. The day began with a rally in Albany in the morning and took har to the luncheon in Elm-hurst, to another luncheon in East Meadow, L.I., to the Flushing Street appearance, to a political dinner at the Tavern-on-the-Green in Manhattan, and to a gathering at Madison Square Garden, before her expected return to Plains, Ga., last night.

She, wanted to he home today, she told several of her audiences, for her daughter Amy's ninth birthday.

She told several hundred members of the Queens Democratic Women's Organization that "one of the first things I want Jimmy to do is to ap-point a President's Commission on Mental Health, which we haven't had in 15 years, since John Kennedy was President.

"There's so much to be done," Mrs. Carter added. "We don't just want to win. We want a mandate from the people. Just think of what Jimmy Carter can do for the country."

Afterward, at a luncheon of about 500 elderly people at the Salisbury Restaturant in East Meadow, she talked about her mother, who is 70 years old, and about Mr. Carter's mother, 78. She said that she had thought she understood the prohlems of the elderly, hut that touring the country had taught her more about them.

Mrs. de Lobo, who is editor in chief Mis. de Looo, who is editor in chief and vice president of the concern, first bit on the notioo of combining the magazine concept with direct advice in 1971, when she was divorced and moved back here from Madrid. "I told an editor friend that all the fashion measuring tried to be the moto ashion magazines tried to be too much to all people," Mrs. de Lobo recalled. "I suggested that she start a service to work personally with women, that would know them as individuals and know what their lives are like. She said, 'Why don't you do it yourself?' "

To gain that necessary insight, Pari-Passu asks subscribers (there are now about 1,900) to fill out detailed questionnaires that cover everything from pbysical appearaoce to bealth regimes to life style and eovironment.

"We try to touch on all parts of life where you pick up the phone and ask a friend to belp. Our idea is to be like that friend." Mrs. de Lobo ex-plained. The United States is a buge country, but New York is the center of freiburg articipate and depending to of fashion, antiques and decorating, so if you live in Wyomiog, it's sometimes difficult to get a good choice. But that doesn't mean you don't want to live with good taste. Aod even in New York, our lives are so busy, we all need help and short cuts."

Mrs. de Lobo, however, will not bandle personal and health problems.

The publication itself, in which articles on separate pages and recipes on cards for easy filing are tucked into a portfolio, deals with standard maga-zine topics but always analyzes them from the coosumer's point of view.

For iostance, it not only shows photographs of the newest fashion col-lections (two issues a year are devoted solely to fashion), but it also discusses who can wear particular styles, which ones do not flatter the imperfect figure aod which are too trendy. Mrs. de Lobo is now formulating articles on such subjects as how stores treat customers and the price of cos-tume jewelry. She also plans a minicourse io print on the various periods of furniture and the kinds of fabrics appropriate for each period. She will also expand the advisory service to include gift buying for bewildered men. For those who are not sure they need the advisory component, the portfolio alone is $19 a year, with individual consultations offered at $15. For information, write to Mrs. S. K. de Lobo, PariPassu, Suite 507, 516 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10036.

Wood, Field & Stream: Semantics and the Hunter

By NELSON BRYANT

Some time ago in this column I de-plored the use of "harvest" to describe the killing of game by hunters.

The results of my pronouncement have clearly had no effect on those who cling to the simplistic notion that renaming an object or an act alters its essence. One reason that harvest is used hy those who write of hunting is that the word coojures up a pleasant arable scene, a girl with her apron filled with ripe tomatoes or a borsedrawn wagon rumbling down a dirt road with a load of Hubbard squashes. Also, some professional wildlife managers are prone to use harvest in this way because they regard the surplus of any year's production of game birds or animals as a crop to be gathered by hunters.

In Britain and sometimes in Canada, an understanding of the last-mentioned idea is implicit in the way an angler when he is eojoying a tot of hrandy tioned about his day's success, he re-sponds that he "killed" one fish. "Catch" is too weak to carry the freight of meaning involved in the

The team physician for Oklahoma State University was particularly adamant on the subject yesterday after hard-shell-helmet injuries last Satur-College day sidelined a few of the Sports Sports outstanding players in the Notes Big Eight Conference for the remainder of the seasoo. They were Nolan Cromwell, the Kansas quarterback, Robert Turner, the Anderson, Oklahoma's right corner-back. Speaking by phone from his of-fice in Stillwater, Dr. Cooper said of these helmets, "They're the damnedest, meanest tool on the face of the earth I bide area? the United States Olympic teams in Mexico City in 1968 and as medical adviser to the National Collegiate Ath-letic Association from 1970 through 1975. He expressed the wish that somebody would do something to require padding on the surface of the helmets. He said helmets have been developed to protect the player wearing them but-not the player struck by them.

Other Studies Blame Helmets

"Nobody ever listens to you until an all-American is hurt. Maybe now they'll listen. "A five year study at the University of North Carolina indicated that 29 per-cent of football's serious internal injuries such as broken ribs, ruptured spicens and bruised kidneys came from spicens and orused kioneys cause from external blows by hard-shell helmets. This report also shows that 50 percent of all fractured hands in football result from striking or being struck by a bard-shell helmet. What more do they need to do something about it?"

Cooper pointed out that college foot-ball rules have outlawed most deliberate striking action with the head such as spearing a player or blocking with the head first. But last Saturday's in-juries, he said, resulted from honest collisions involving the beimets.

Can Yanks, 0-2, Bounce Back? Ellis Hurls at Stadium Tonight

Still seeking their 100th World Series victory after a lapse of 12 years plus two games, the Yankees will resume their uphill battle with the Cincinnati Reds for basehall's championship tonight before 57,000 fans shivering in their polar seats at Yankee Stadium and millions more lounging in the warmth of their living rooms.

Freezing or comfortable, the fans anxiously await the answers to several questions:

GCan the Yankees bounce hack from their 0-2 deficit and transform the Series into an exciting spectacle?

Will Dock Ellis renew his beanball war with the Reds, who have seen him virtually not at all since he started the

Will Mickey Rivers snap out of his slump, or will his latest session with George Steinbrenner backfire and result in the opposite effect the owner strived for?

Won a Playoff Game

broadcast it), the temperature is ex-pected to be heading for the 40-degree

That still would be higher than Rivers's batting average for the Series, which Steinbrenner was concerned about yesterday when he called the center fielder in for a private chat, their second in six days. After their other session last Wednesday, Rivers, who had managed only four hits in 18 playoff times at bat, exploded for four hits in the Yankees' pennant-winning victory over Kansas City. Rivers has failed to hit in nire times up in the Series and his absence from the bases bas affected the Yankee attack.

"It was a very good meeting on both parts." Steinbrenner said of the supposed spirit-raising session. But that's not bow Rivers viewed it.

Viewed as Moody Player "He wanted to know why I'm not hitting and stuff like that," Rivers related, obviously not happy about the chat. "You know, sometimes you got to get into a slump. Some people can't see that, I get here without all that. It's bis team and all that, but I'd rather he'd just let me go out there and play like I feel. If I'm messing up, take me to he pepped up in some way. His base-running and stealing pave the way for the team's offensive production. But that production has totaled only four runs and 14 hits in the first two games.

"We've been very, very fortunate that we're keeping Rivers off base," Sparky Anderson, the Cincinnati manager, said. "If he gets on hase, he could turn the whole thing around." Billy Martin, who is seeking his first Series chamoionship as a manager, did-n't agree that Rivers was the key to the Yankees' chances of winning enough games so the Series could re-turn to Cincinnati this weekend.

Deliberately Hit 3 Batters

"If we got some key hits in other 54 spots," the Yankee manager said, "we wouldn't have needed Mickey on base. Mickey's getting on hase is a plus, but '6 we can win without Mickey getting on u? base.'

To win tonight, the Yankees will need a well-pitched game from Ellis, but di they don't have to resort to tricks to get him "psyched" for the game. He pitched against the Reds for eight years as a Pittsburgh Pirate and they are not his favorite team.

the end of that period, in 1961. The tyrants' sun was setting then, though neither the opposition nor the spectators could have sensed that as the last of the fabled company-Berra, Whitey Ford. Bobby Richardson and Roger Maris, aided by people named Hector Lopez, Johnny Blanchard and Bill Skowron-rode the Reds down four times in five games.

Cincinnati hadn't built Riverfront Stadium then, and the last three games were played in Crosley Field, which was to Jim Brosnan, the Reds' nuthor-pitcher, that he had forgotten what a cramped playground it was.

"That's right," Brosnan said, "a pitcher can't afford to make a mistake here."

"In fact," Jim said thoughtfully, "it's a small town. You can't afford to make any mistakes."

Professional baseball was spawned in Cincinnati 107 years ago and the champions who represent that town today are almost surely the best team in baseball. Yet until Don Gullett and accomplices won the opener of this Series last Saturday, Cincinnati teams had amassed, over the years, a total of one victory against the Yankees. That was the second game of the 1961 World Series, which they won behind Joey Jay, 6-2. Only once before that had these clubs disputed the championship, and on that occasion the Yankees of Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller, Bill Dickey and the rest han stormed through four straight without working up a sweat.

The last game left a grotesque tableau printed indelibly on memory. The Reds kicked away a two-run lead in the top of the ninth, seeding the game into an extra inning with the score at 4-4. Then everything came apart as three Yankees went capering around to score. Last of these was DiMaggio, who hed started from first base and just kept running when Keller, scoring ahead of him, knocked Ernie Lombardi loose from the ball. That was the tableau - Di-Maggic flashing across the plate with the big catcher in a dezed sprawl and the ball lying inches from his hand. That victory made the Yankees the first team ever to win four consecutive World Series. In those four years they whipped the National League champions in 16 games while losing only three. As of today, they have won three of their last 13 World Series games. It is a different age.

Trail Blazers Trade Malone to Braves

By SAM GOLDAPER

Moses Maione, trying to survive in the world of professional basketball ever since he bypassed college in 1974 to sign with the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association, was traded yesterday by the Portland Trail Blazers to the Buffalo Braves. In the deal, which will he announced today, Portland will receive Buffalo's first pick in the 1978 college draft, and Buffalo will pay the Trail Blazers the $350,000 that Malone cost in the National Basketball Association's draft of A.B.A. players.

The 6-fuot-11-inch Malone, who in 1974 signed a seven-year, $3 million contract, was too expensive for Portland which would have used him as a substitute. The Trail Blazers have outstanding big men in Bill Walton and Maurice Lucas.

Malone, who can play either forward or center, averaged 18.8 points a game in his rockie season, but last season, in which he averaged 14.3, was a nightmare for him. He suffered several injuries, and when the Stars folded he injuries, and when the Stars folded he wound up with the Spirits of St. Louis, who then also went out of business.

He had not played well in preseason with the Trail Blazers this year until Saturday night, when in 26 minutes he scored 24 points, hitting on 11 of 14 shots. He also grabbed 12 rebounds. The acquisition of Malone gives the Braves an excess of front-court talent, and they may try to do some more trading. If Malone develops as many have predicted; however, he could be insurance against the loss of Bob McAdoo,

Silas and the Boston Celtics today at 12:30 P.M. before Peter Seitz, arbitrator. Silas, a holdcut, says that he has no contract and that the Celtics have prevented him from negctieting with other teams. If Silas wins in arbitration, the Knicks will negotiate with him There have been reports that the Cel-tics will try to trade Silas before the arbitration begins. . . Willis Reed, whose uniform number, 19, will be retired Thursday night before the Knicks and the Los Angeles Lakers play at Madison Square Garden, will receive New York City's Big Apple Award.

Moses Malone

Cunningham Retires

Billy Cunningham, a four-time ali-star with the Philadelphia 76ers who was the A.B.A.'s most valuable player in his first season with the Carolina Cougars, has retired after cartilage and a ligament that he tore in a knee last December in a game against the Knicks failed to mend sufficiently. The 33-year-old Cunningham tried playing during the preseason, but the knee popped in a game against the Boston Celtics as he made an uncontested layup.

Nets Cut Four Players

The Nets have cut Jerry Baskerville, Major Jones, George Bucci and Pete Davis to get down to the 12-player limit. The release of Bucci, a Net last season, and Davis left the New Yorkers with only three backcourt men: Nate Archibald, John Williamson and Al Skinner. The News are certain to pick up another guard ... Pete Maravich of the New Orleans Jazz has missed jour games with a pinched nerve in his neck....Kevia Joyce became the second Indiana Pacer to be lost for the season when he tore knee ligaments in Sunday's loss to the Detroit Pistons. Len Elmore, the starting center, suf-fered a similar injury earlier and is also out for the season.

the Civil War. When they were children, they all confess now as they gather in the Bronx, they were all Yankees under the skin.

Mantle His Favorite Player

"When I was a kid," Zachry was saying as he approached his con-frontation with the "new" Yankees, "I used to get out in the back yard down in Waco with a plastic ball and hat, and I'd pretend that I was pltching against them. I knew their lineup by heart, they were my favorite team and Mickey Mantle was my fa-vorite player. You know, Graig Netdes and Chris Chambliss are fine hitters, and Thurmen Munson is a very tough our. But in those days,

The Reds, though, won't be fooled by those strange distances. They worked out under the lights at the Stadium last night so they could become familiar with the strange substance known as grass. They play most of their games during the season on artificial turf. All five of their postseason victories have been on artificial torf.

"The Yankees have won three in a row and four in a row during the seaaon," Anderson said in one of his more act, Anderson said in one of his more cautious statements of the Series. But then he added, "If they do now, I'll be the most sbocked person in the The Yankees wereo't in a state of shock over their two losses in Cincin-nati, but they were atill talking about a crazy play in Sunday night's 4-3 loss.

Concepcion Out of Position

It happened to the fourth inoing wheo Graig Nettles singled in a ruo. As Chambliss reached third ahead of the throw from right-center, Nettles roared into second. Rose, trying to get Nettles, fired the ball wide of Morgan and it should have gone into the outfield. But for some reason, Dave Coocepcion, the shortstop, was standing about six feet behind Morgan and the ball struck his leg and fell to the ground.

If Concepcion had been at his short-stop spot, where he serves as a cutoff man oo throws from that part of the outfield, the ball would have bounced into right-center and the runners could have scored. That would have given the Yankees a 4-3 lead entering the

However, they didn't score and the game was 3-3 when the Reds came to bat in the ninth. They scored the wio-oing run against Catfish Hunter oo Fred Stanley's two-out, two-base Fred Stanley's two-out, two-base throwing error on Ken Griffey's grounder, an intentional walk to Morgan and a single by Perez.

Maddox Experts to Get

Another Knee Operation

Elliott Maddox, the Yankee outfielder who missed most of this season following knee surgery, said yesterday he needs another operation on the knee. Maddox, who isn't listed io tonight's starting lineup with Pat Zachry, a right-hander, pitching for Cincinnati, said the ligaments in his right knee are still loose and the purpose of the origi-oal operation last September was to bai operation last september was to tighten them. "Tm not going to wear a brace all my life," Maddox said. "Twe been told the only way to get rid of the brace is through surgery. It's not my goal to have another operation, but I'm going to do whatever is necessary to get rid of the brace. I know what it takes to come back from surgery and I am come back from surgery and I am willing to do it." The condition of Maddox's knee would seem to insure that neither expansion team, Seattle nor Toronto, would take a chance oo choosing him in next month's draft.

Dh, Still4-Letter Word to Anderson, Seen as the Not-So-Great Equalizer

By LEONARD KOPPETT

Sparky Anderson, who has managed 1,264 Cincinnati Reds games under "ordioary" haseball rules, has oow managed two using the disignated hitter, and his opinion about that rule has firmed up. Before trying it, he considered it "terrible"; after the first game of the World Series, he upgraded that . to "it stinks"; oow he considers it "monoric."

In other words, he's against it."

"It takes most of the thinking away from a manager," be says, "and makes morons out of all 24 of us-including me. You don't need basebali managers with it. Just get a bunch of Harvard professors and let them run the game, they'll do just as well. Whoever invented that rule ought to feel proud. Not understanding anything about baseball, he made an idiotic chaoge.'

But There's More

Much has already been said about the direct effect of the rule on possible strategy. If a team is behind in a close game in the late innlogs, the manager must decide whether to use a pinch-hitter, forcing the pitcher out of the game, or to keep the pitcher in at the expense of needed offense.

"But that's just a small part of it, that's not really the bad part." Ander-son explains. "A manager's thinking starts at the beginning of the game, and it's a question of utilizing your seven extra players [the nonpitchers]. You have to think ahead about when to use or not use yoor pinch-hitters, so you don't get stuck in the late inwhich one I think I might need more later. I might keep both, and use Ed Armbrister. And if I guess wrong, I'll get second-guessed, which is fine.

"But with the dh, all I bave to do is put Bailey or Driessen into the batting order, and sit back like a dummy. If they change pitchers, 1 can chaoge the dh: big deal. I don't have to save aoybody and I don't have to do any thiog, because if I do make late pitching changes I won't be using a piocbhitter anyhow.

Dumbest and the Smartest

"This is equalization, making the dumbest as good as the smartest. Gene Mauch sbouldn't be equalized dowo to some manager that isn't as good, he should have the benefit of his brains. We don't live io a communistic or socialistic society. You should have the benefit of your advactages. "This way, there's nothing to it. You know what I'd do? I'd get four big bruisers who can't do anythiog else, put them in and out, and sit there like a robot. I'd also get more pitchers -I'd get 12, and run them in and out of the game. The guy who thinks you should cut back to eight pitchers with the dh rule isn't thinking it through.

"It's terrible, it's moronic, and I hope the authorities wake up to that and get rid of it. It's not my business to run baseball and make the rules, and it's certainly easier to sit back and play with this rule. But it is up to me to express my honest oploion about it." What did his designated hitter, Dries-

Casey Stengel was the ringmaster and the Yankees owned the hall. They were always my favorite team, and my hero was Mickey Mantle."

"I'm like that, too," said Anderson, splendidly silverhaired at 42 and the manager of the Reds during their four pennants in seven years. "Ooly DiMaggio was my hero. I signed originally with the Dodgers, but I always hated the Dodgers and loved the Yankees. I'll have to he honest, even after signing with the Dodgers io 1953, I was hoping the Yankees would win all those World Series agaiost them. It's thrilling to me-I've never even seen the inside of Yankee Stadium."

That is, he oever saw the inside of the stadium uotil last night, when the Reds assembled there for an unusual workout under the lights. These Ciocinnati Reds have oever played baseball there. So, two games in froot and needing only two more to wio another championship, they tested the grass, the lights and the cold weather under battle conditioos in full view of 54,000 empty seats.

The Yankees bad left the field a couple of hours earlier, and Martio considered the fact that Zachry's hero had beeo his old running mate Mantle and decided: "I think Mr. Zachry is a very smart man. I always wanted to be a Yankee myself."

White Senior Yankee at 32

The senior Yankee player on the who's only 32 but who signed his first contract in 1962, the year the Yankees won their 20th and last world champiooship. Since then, starting with the Dodgers' sweep in 1963, they have played in 13 World Series games and lost 10 of them. "I more or less expected the Yankees to keep on winning pen-nants," the leftfielder said. "My first spring training with the Yankees was the early camp in 1963. I remember bow we were all awalting the arrival of Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris, El-ston Howard, guys like that. It was a big thrill just working out with them and taking grounders at second base with Jerry Colemao and Bobby Richardson helping me.

"Later, it was hard going to all those off-seasoo functions each wioter when the first question you'd hear was: What happened to the Yankees?"

What happened to the Yankees was, as Mantle remembers, "We all got old together." The other teams also ganged up on them by creating the free-ageot draft of amateur players, so that no one club could mooopolize the taleot-like young Pat Zachry of Waco.

"In high school," Zachry recalled, the Mets sent out scouting cards. I filled one out and mailed it back, but I never heard anything of it-fortunately for me, I guess, hecause I might oot be here now."

That's for aure. Then Zachry was asked about his six long years in the minor leagues in this colloquy: "You are known as a fun-loving rookie. Did that bold you back?"

Rookie: "I don't know. Cao you be little more apecific about the funloving?

Questioner: "No comment." Zachry: "No commeot, either."

Best Friend Not at Series

"I don't talk to the ball, like Mark Fidrych," he said. "I talk to my dog. A skinny German shepherd oamed Brooco. He's my best friend in the world. I waoted to bring him to the World Series hut didn't think the Yankees would spring for the ticket. He'll probably be watching on TV, though.

"Once," said Sparky Anderson, "he asked me if he could take his dog on the road with the ball club. He was homesick."

'Waco has a little over 100,000 people," said the rookie who used to ose to the Yankees io bis backyard, "and I grew up surrounded by love. There are too many people io New York, I need the wide open spaces." And if he beats bis old heroes and the Reds win the World Series, what will he do with his prize mooey of maybe $25,000?

"First I'm going to the bank and cash the check." Pat Zachry said, "and then I'll take the money and go home and throw it all on the bed. And then I'll jump right in the middle of it.'

Court about "the free movement of average or below-average players."

They said also that because there was no limit on the rule's duration, "it operates as a perpetual restriction on a player's ability to sell his services in an open market throughout his career.

The appeals court did not go so far in its roling as did Federal District Judge Earl R. Larson, who declared the Rozelle Rule illegal on its face.

By contrast, the appeals court said that "the unique nature of the business of professional football" dictated that it examine closely, whether there are any justifications for the rule.

The court examined arguments by N.F.L. club owners that voiding the Rozelle Rule would, as the court put it, cause star players to "flock to cities having oatural advantages such as larg-er economic bases, winning teams; warmer climates and greater media opportunities."

But the judges concluded that "the possibility of resulting decline in the quality of play would not justify the Rozelle Rule."

In urging negotiations to determine at way of regulating player transfers that would maintain "competitive bal-ance" in the league without violating the law, the court said "the parties are far better situated to agreeably re-solve what rules governing player transfers are best suited for their mutual interest than are the courts."

Burgess and Sommers Hired as Mets' Coaches

The Mets, who recently announced that they would not retain Eddle Yost and Roy McMillan, said yesterday that the two coaches would be replaced by Tom Burgess and Denny Sommers. The new coaches will join Rube Walker and Joe Pignatano on the staff of Manager Joe Frazier.

Burgess, 48 years old, spent this season as manager of the Mets Tide-water team in the International League. Before that, the former outfielder-first baseman spent most of his career as a player and manager in the St. Louis Cardinals' organization.

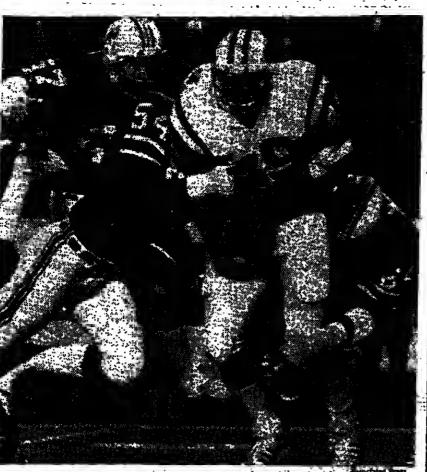

Sommers, 36, was the manager this season of the Chicago Cubs' Midland team in the Texas League. In 1975 he led the Lafayette La, team to the Texas League pennant.

The Band Is Planni Music: A Juilliard Anniversary Final Farewell' Co Quartet Marks 30 Years With New Argentinian Work, For Thanksgivin Continuing to Champion the Contemporary

By DONAL HENAHAN

The Juilliard String Quartet is 30 years old this month, but it is a young 30. Of the four musicians who currendy perform under that proud hanner, only one, Robert Mann, was a member of the original group. Mr. Mann, the first violinist, led an anni-versary performance at the Juilliard Theater on Sunday that brought into focus several characteristics long assoclated with the Juillard, as well as others that set the 1976 edition of the quartet epart from its predecessors.

The Juillard, for instance, has a long history of championing contem-porary music; its repertory includes more than 150 works by Zoih-century composers and it has given premieres of more than 25 place by American of more than 35 pieces by Americans. For its 30th hirthday, the Juilliard commissioned another American work. this time by a South American, the Argentinian New Yorket Mario David-ovsky, a Pulitizer Prize winner who now is assistant director of the Columbia-Princeton Electronic Music Center.

Old Fans Cheer Tagliavini in Carnegie Hall Recital

Ferruccio Tagliavini's return to New York on Sunday night was one of those sentimental occasions that give opera followers the opportunity to cheer an old favorite. Mr. Tagliavini is not really old, except as tenors go: He is only 63 years old. A leading Italian tenor during and shortly after World War II, he sang lyric roles at the Metropolitan from 1947 through 1954. How many singers from that period still dare to appear in public? ....

Beyond nostalgia, the question was how much voice did Mr. Tagliavini have left for this Carnegie Hall rental. A good deal, as it turned out, though not nearly enough to let him bring off the dramatic top notes of Puccini's "E Lu-cevan, le stelle" or even the lower, but more heavily declamatory passages of Cilea's "Lamento di Federico." Mr. Tagliavini chose his program

The Joffrey Ballet seems to he enjoying great success with its current red white and blue engagement devoted to American choreographers: On Sunday, night at the 55th Street City Center, it brought a largely new cast into the season's first performance of "As Time Goes By," which Twyla Tharp-created for the company in 1973.

It is possible to single out favorite Tharp pleces from her own moderndance company. But "As Time Goes By" is certainly Miss Tharp's best work for a ballet company. Here Miss Tharp does not stand aside and comment upon her own work as she often does, but allows the dancing to speak for itself.

The movement is a mixture of clas-

3, on one hearing, did not leave an impression of strong individuality. In its apparent determination to explore the potentialities of the stringed instau-ments the piece could sound at times like the middle Bartok quartets. At the start there were suggestions of Webern in the thin textures and jagged lines, and at excitable moments one felt the and at excitable moments one test are presence of Berg. More recent quartets such as lanoslawski's came to mind, too. But Mr. Davidovsky's piece, which is in one movement, ended by sounding like a catalogue of quartet possibilities rather than a quartet.

The other two pieces on the program were Mozart's Quartet in E flat (K.428) and Schubert's Quarter in G (D. 887): The performances, though highly polished and virtuosic in the best Juilliard tradition, sounded clinical, no-doubt in part because the dry acoustics of the theater took the nep off string tone. But, particularly in the Schubert meandering stretches, instronomic tem-pos and a reluctance to let the music breathe at the end of phrases gave the masic the wrong sort of tension, creat-ing a kind of taut duliness.

wisely, keeping it short and filling it out with music that required more temperament and knowledge of audi-ence psychology than sheer voice. He had success, for instance, with songs by Donandy and Verdi, with the lightly, graceful "Vainement, ma bien-aimée" of Lalo, and even, if somewhat Italian-ate inflections could be overlooked, with the English version of Ichaikov-sky's "None but the Lonely Heart." The tempt could gustain tones skill.

The tenor could sustain tones skill-fully in the middle of his voice and fully in the middle of this voice and shade with some sublety. He also has a well-preserved sob. Unfortunately, be did not go to the top of the treble staff, let alone above, with confidence, some-times resorting to yelling the upper notes. The program, which was accom-panied by the planist Richard Foster, also included criss by Doniratti and also included arias by Donizetti and Massenet as well as songs by Denza, Tosti, Soreano and Obradors. For this reason, it seems a shame that the present cast overplays for laughs. The ballet in-jokes, especially in the second partnering section, do not have to be stressed. Other cast changes brought in Rus-sell Sultzbach's magnificent debut as the Torch Bearer in Gerald Arpino's "Olympics" and Dermot Burke, replacing Paul Sutherland, with Lisa Bradley, in Mr. Arpino's "Sea Shadow." Ines-capably, this duct--it is not a paster deux-harks back to the "Afternoon of a Faun." Like Merce Cunningham, she can take familiar ballet steps and place them in unfamiliar sequences, often speeding up or toving with their usual time span. In this ballet, she achieves her affects by juxtaposing contrasting idioms within a single phrase. She is also brilliant at her compositional patterns-diagonals are formed suddenly and disappear; a few dancers, cluster but do so many different thiogs, at the same time that they seem to fill the entire stage with

CIT THE STRIKE IS OVER. PERFORMANCES RESUME TONIGHT.

We regret the inconvenience caused to our audience by the recent Orchestra Strike. The balance of the sea-son will adhere as closely as possible to the originalschedule; but in order to bring you the new productions already announced, we have had to make some revisions.

Patrons holding tickets to cancalled performances: may: 1) exchange them for any remaining performance for which ticketa are still available; 2) apply their tickets toward Spring 1977 subscriptions; 3) exchange them for available performances of the New York City Ballet during the Fali season, which opens on November 16; 4) obtain refunds during normal box office business hours.

We do, however, remind you that the difficult financial position of the New York City Opera has been im-measurably worsened, and tha donation of your tick-it ets for cancelled performances will be a welcome (and tax-deductible) gift.

If you wish to donate your tickets, you may mail them to New York City Opera, Dapt. A, Lincoln Center, New York 10023. Include your return address, and we will be pleased to send you a receipt for income tax purposes."

himself. And so he simply refused to share the platform with anyone: He would gieefully attack his own positions, thank you, and let fair play win. (In the later plays, if he wished to attack munitions makers, he gave the longest, most carefully reasoned, most impertinent speeches to the municions maker; if he wished to give Joan of Arc new status, he offered the longest and most adroit passage to her Inquisitor.) This wasn't and isn't light-mind-edness. It's not even exactly broadmindedness. It is, rather, a restless-ness of mind, a quickness to question the very logic he has es-poused, a handy wit for besting himself (both ways), a capacity for seeing six sides of an issue and enjoying all six. The wit never did consist in simply making a jest, though he learned, line hy lice, to hecome funnier and funnier, it consisted in a habit of thought that held all hahits of thonght to he suspect, subject to npending. Turn the matter over and over and over and take delight in watching it spin. Looking at the Roundahout's aleek and amiable resurrection of a foolishly neglected play, we can see now that Shaw had the clue to what would become his career in his hands. He couldn't see it hecause "The Philanderer" failed to find a producer at the time. No one, apparently, could quite grasp what the unpredictable man was up to. And so he turned tail, or turtle, with "Mrs. Warren's Profes-sion," going hack to the Ibsen mold he'd just been reducing, with a schoolboy's enthusiasm, to mince-meat. It wasn't his mold hutcharacteristically—he continued to admire it, and so he gave himself over to what he called "didactic realism" once again. As it happens, "Mrs. Warren" wasn't produced, either, though for reasons, of censorship (that hint of incest, mark you) rather than indif-ference forring him on to a luckiference, forcing him on to a luckier, more sportive stroke, "Arms and the Man." After that, with its ramantic nonsense shot full of holes though the hullets were only chocolate, he was on his way. You won't laugh aloud a lot at "The Philanderer," hut I think your grin will be constant, your good humor assured. For anyone inter-ested in Shaw's seesaw, straining-at-the-leash development, it's a must_ Events Today Theater BEST FRIEND, a play by Michael Sawyer. A shambling sack of a man, dving at the entrance to his prisoner's cell; he confides, in exasperation: "This is terrible!

This can't happen on my shift." Both LM. Hobson (as the guard) and Rohhie McCauley (as Jo Anne) humanize their characters. Beneath his villainy there is a certain ami-ability and beneath her innocence there is an iron will. Miss McCauley sensitively delineates the many faces of Jo Anne, she is as con-vincing in the guard's absurd version of the killing as she is in her own straightforward version. As director, Carl Weber, a vet-eran of the Berliner Ensemble and a specialist in Brecht, gives a kind of Brechtian treatment to Mr. Bullins—although some of the scenes are staged naturalistically. All as-pects of the production do not yet hlend.

Mr. Weber presents this panoply of the true and the imagined (symof the true and the integrated sym-holic figures wander like icons through tha action) on a stage broken into shifting spaces. Karl Eigsti's multifunctional set and Carman Moore's highly charged musical score are definite assets.

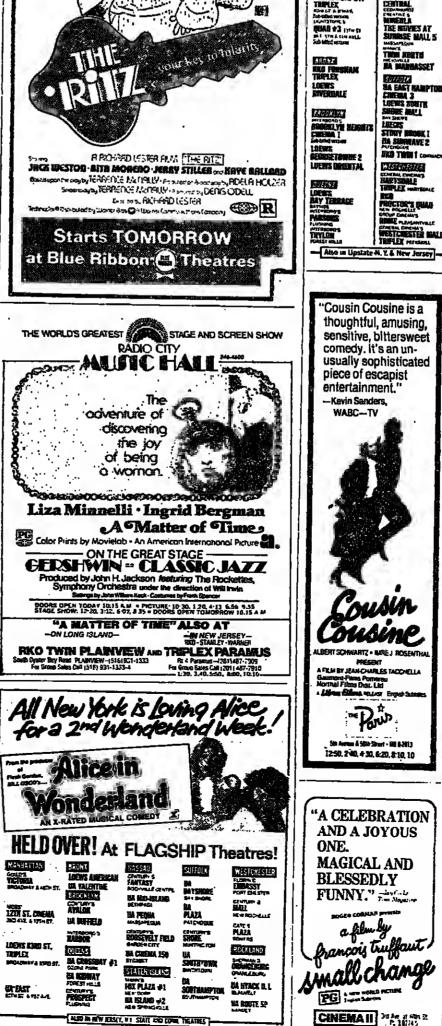

The author calls the play "a nightmare fantasy of the mind." It is a nightmare, but the story, as interpreted by Mr. Bullins, is too human to be totally fantastical. This case did happen and "Jo the trial allowing - Annel" locks it in our memory.

By JOHN H. ALLAN The credit markets seemed to have second thoughts about the near-term outlook for interest rates yesterday and the case for a continued decline in rates became less cooviocing. In the money mar-ket, the funds rate traded mostly at 5 per-cent and rose to 5 1/16 per-cent before the Federal ened the conviction that the central ban now was aiming to push this key rate tn 4% percent. Nevertheless, three-month Treasury bills were sold yes terday at an average discount rate of 4.80 percent, the lowest rate in a weekly bil auction since mid-April.

In the bond market, the A-rated Duke Power Company bonds that were offered to investors last Wednesday at a yield of 8.42 percent—the lowest rate of return for such securities since late 1973—were freed to trade in the secondary market and they promptly declined enough in price to raise their yields to 8.54 percent. An estimated $70 million of the $100 million issue was still unsold when the un-derwriting syndicate, led by the First Boston Corporation, disbanded.

The bond market'a setback yesterday set the stage for today's $150 million sale of triple-A debentures of the New York Telephone Company, which investment bankers late vesterday predicted to yield a little less than 8.25 percent.

a little less than 8.25 percent. The New Jersey Bell Telephone Com-pany's 8's of 2016, which were marketed on Seot. 21, were offered late yesterday at 98<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub>, wheer they yielded 8.17 percent. Th Illinois Bell Telephone Company's 8<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub>'s nf 2016, offered originally on Aug. 11, were quoted at 100<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>, wheer they yielded 8.18 percent.

Depending on the mood of the bond market at mon when bids are scheduled to be made, the New York Telephone bonds will yield slightly more than these two recent Bell System issues, some underwriters predicted yesterday.

The Weyerhaeuser Company's S200 mil-llon of 30-year debentures, rated As by Moody's and AA by Standard & Poor's are expected to be sold today with a 7.95 percent interest rate and a price of 99% percent of face value to yield 7.98 percent. Morgan Staoley & Company heads the underwriters.

Broad Market Advance 10% OPEC PRICE RISE AT DECEMBER TALKS

Publisher of Middle East Economic Survey Says the Size Depends on Outcome of North-South Talks

By WILLIAM D. SMITH

I to The New York Time BOULDER, Colo., Oct. 18-A minimum price increase of 10 percent can be ex-pected when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries meets in Qatar in December according several oil ana-lysts and economists gathered today at the University of Colorado for the third annual international conference on ener-gy and development.

Many of the experts indicated that a 15 percent advance is not unlikely and that a 20 percent increase could not be considered out of the question.

OPEC has not increased its prices since October 1975. The present price of Saudi Arabian light crude off, the marker price for all OPEC oil, is $11.51 a barrel.

for all OPEC OIL is SILDI a Darrel. Fuad Itayim, editor and publisher of the Middle East Economic Survey, said that whether the 10 percent or 20 percent increase would be decided upon by the oil producers' cartel depended largely upon the progress made in the so-called north-south dialogue heing held between the industrialized nations and the devel-ming nations. oping nations.

Last summer most energy analysts were predicting a price increase in the range of only 5 percent to 10 percent.

Mr. Itayim said that two scenarios had been prepared at a meeting among OPEC's largest members, including Saudi Arabia, Iran, Algeria and Venezuela. One scenario calls for the 10 percent minimum increase if the producing states feel progress is being made in the outstanding issues at the Conference on International Economic Cooperation the formal name for the north-south dialogue.

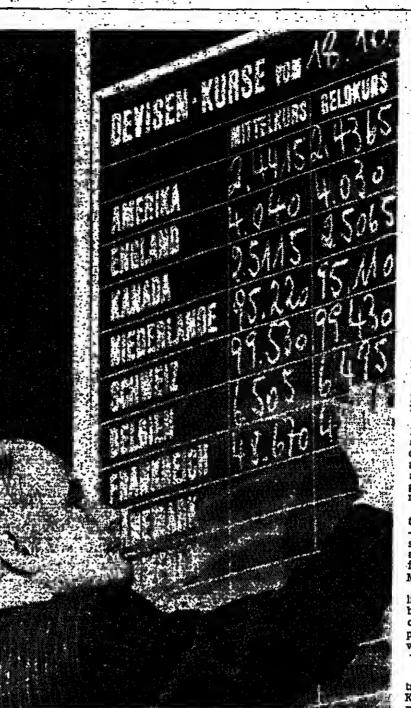

20% Rise Is Possibility

If little or no progress is made the price increase could go as high as 20 percent, according to the second scenario repared by the OPEC members. Some economists indicated that a 20 percect oll price advance might he dif-ficult to absorb coosidering the rather fragile state of the recovering world economy. Others, however, said that it could be handled although with some dif-

Some currency dealers said they be-5 lieved the calm would be only temporary. because they had expected a revaluation of 6 to 10 percent, instead of the 2 to 6, percent increase the mark actually got within the joint arrangement.

'Contribution to Building of Europe' 30

The small revaluation was "a contribu-!sam tion to the building of Europe," said Karls of Klasen, the central bank president, this and morning. Originally, the idea of keeping "ar," European currencies' fluctuation within "ist a narrow range, known as the "joint in float," was intended to be the first step m toward a single European currency and coh a building block for a united Europe.

Net interest income rose to $426.7 million, up 8.4 percent over the year-ago period. Non interest income, including trust department fees, leasing revenue and other fes jumped 21,1 percent in the third quarter to $117.7 million from $97.2 million in the 1975 third quarter.

The loan loss provision in the third quarter was $32.8 million compared with $32.7 million in the year-ago third quar-ter. Actual chargeoffs in the latest ouar-ter totaled $26.7 million, down from $36.5 million a year ago. BankAmerica reported that the decline in domestic commercial loans was more than offset by increases in overseas and subsidiary loans. In addition, consumer loans totaled $5.2 billion, up 13.3 percent over a year ago.

This past year, an acceptable return for a typical stock was in the area of 11%, counting dividends and appreciation. A lesser potential yield might have warranted a change of investment strategy.

Is any such figure a valid guide for the future? Should it be higher or lower in 1977? Diverse forces are influencing ... and complicating ... the future. For instance, the analytical usefulness of reported earnings has lessened, and investors must focus more on cash availability for present and future dividends.

Our new Investment Strategy Report for October is designed to help you look ahead in the changing light ... to anticipate certain changes. It discusses a dramatic shift in the primary roster of companies owned or followed by institutions. It singles out major corporations which we believe are currently undervalued in the forest products, energy, retailing and health care fields. In addition, it gives a significant, capsulized overview of the continuing deterioration occuring in the nuclear power industry. Use the coupon for your copy of this timely report.

Resistance on Japanese Fund Offe

Merrill Lynch is bullish on America, but it appears that a relatively limited number of Merrill Lynch customers are bullish on Japan — at least at the firm's offices at 345 Park Avenue.

On : Sept. 28, Merrill Lynch and Nomura Securities International, the Nomiral Securities international, life, largest brokers in the United States, and Japan, respectively, offered 3 mil-lion shares in the Nomira Capital Fund of Japan at $10 each, with the dead-line for completion of the offering now set for tomorrow.

Nomina Capital is an open end fund. whose investment, objective is long-term capital appreciation through investment, in normal times, of 80 per-cent of fund assets in Japanese com-moo shares and securities convertible into commoo stock.

Like the Japan Fund, an investment company set up in 1962, Nomura Cap-ital expects not to emphasize interest income and dividends, which, the new prospectus notes, are subject to a 15 percent tax in Japan.

The prospectus notes that Japan is dependent upon foreign sources for raw materials and that its ecoomy relies heavily oo overseas trade. More to the point, the prospectus notes that there are "special considera-tions"-risks such as those entailed in foreign exchange rate fluctuations and possible exchange control regula-tions. Therefore, the prospectus states that the fund should be "considered as. a vehicle for diversification and not as a balanced investment program."

In any event, the Merrill Lynch Park Avenue office, near East 51st Street, was not doing well with the offering, prompting a memo recently from the branch manager, Samuel R. Cappiello, to all "A/E's," Mertill's shorthand for account executives, or registered representatives.

"We have taken a sounding of several offices in the metropolitan region and find there is general participation by A/E's in this offering," the memoat 3:00 P-M today. largest cigarette company after the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, continued its record-breaking performance with third-quarter net earnings up 22.7 percent to $74.5 million, or $1.25 a sbare, while consolidated operating revenues gained 17.8 percent to $1.12 hillion. The company further increased its market shara with continued growth of Marlboro, Benson & Hedges, Virginia Slims and Merit, which led the domestic cigarette industry, Joseph F. Cullman 3d, chairman, said.

Polaroid Corp.

The Polaroid Corporation, the photographic equipment producer, reported yesterday a record third-quarter net income of $18.7 million, equal to 57 cents a share, up 15.4 percent from a year ago. Second-quarter earnings were 56 cents a share and 32 cents a share io the initial three months. Sales were $236.9 million or 17.7 percent ahead of last year's third quarter volume of $201.2 million.

William J. McCuna Jr., president, said domestic and international operations had record sales in the quarter, reflecting the higher demand for company products from dealers and customers. Purchases of Polaroid cameras by domestic dealers, especially for the Pronto and Deluxe SX-70 camera have been perticularly "brisk" in recent weeks, the executive reported.

American Home Products

The American Home Products Corporation, which derives the major part of its earnings from prescription and packaged drugs, continued to set records in sales and earnings for the third quarter.

Net income of $72.9 million, or 46 cents s share, increased 9 percent from $66.8 million, or 42 cents a sbare, for the 1975 third quarter. Sales were up 6 per-cent to $663.4 million from $624 million. Other pharmaceutical companies that issued reports yesterday also made more money in the third quarter.

Merck & Company increased its net earnings by 11 percent to a record of $67.3 million, or 89 cents a sbare, on record sales of $422.7 million, or 10 percent ahead of a year ago.

Eli Lilly & Company showed net earn-ings of $42.6 million, or 61 cents a share, a gain of 11.8 percent from a year ago. While sales moved up 8.6 percent to $308 million from last year's quarter.

The Smithkline Corporation's third quarter net profit amounted to $19.2 mil-lion, or $1.28 a share, up 13.6 percent from a year earlier. Sales were $171 million, or 11.7 percent more than in the 1975 quarter.

TOKYO-Not expecting any notable achievements, three prominent stock market officials from the United States arrived here a week ago to join some 75 of their counterparts from other countries for the annual meeting of the International Federa-

Thomas E. Mullaney

The tion of Stock Exchanges. When they left last Satur-Economic day for some sightseeing Scene and a tour of husiness and industry in other Japanese cities, they were surprised and pleased over what had been accomplished here to facilitate the international movement of capital.

The three representatives from the United States were Paul Kolton, chair-man of the American Stock Exchange: man of the American Stock Exchange, William C. Freund, vice president and economist of the New York Stock Ex-change, and James J. Needham, former chairman of the Big Board, as well as president of the World Federation for the last year. In the latter capacity, Mr Needham presided at the four days Mr. Needham presided at the four days of intensive closed meetings here for the delegates from 23 countries repre-senting stock exchanges and associa-tions of securities officials.

Because of the terminatioo of his role at the New York Exchange several months ago, Mr. Needham resigned as satisfaction over "the coostructive ad-vance to broaden its horizona" made

"As a result of the meeting here; the federation will pursue policies to assist capital formation in many countries, and will monitor the work of other international economic groups, It will also provide new services for all with that assessment, but both cautioned that much more study and discussion were necessary on matters such as securities rules and regulations to harmonize market practices and ioformation in different parts of the world.

"We formally adopted one important program here," Mr. Freund said. "That's good progress, If we can continue to agree and adopt just one similar program each year, I think the federation's work will be quite notable." With obvious satisfaction, all of the American representatives pointed to the establishment of a uniform listing standard for companies whose securities might eventually be traded oo mar-kets around the world. This project had been discussed for two years by a working committee beaded by officials of the Amex and consisting of exchange officiala from Tokyo and Rio de Janeiro.

The delegates to last week's meeting agreed to the committee's proposals for minimum listing standards patterned along the lines that prevail in the Uoit-ed States for domestic companies.

• The same details on a company's operations, finances, management and securities, pending legal actions and other pertineot corporate information required in a listing application in the United States will be necessary in the new uniform international application. It will permit the use of one set of data as the listing application for any major stock exchange in the world.

The rules, which conform to the new requirements recently adopted by the New York Stock Exchange, will make it possible for a number of foreign com panies to be listed on the New York markets, Mr. Freund said. The Big Board and the Amex are currently negotiating with many foreign corporations, especially Japanese concerns, to bring their stocks to the United States markets.

A second area in which considerable progress was made at this meeting of the Interoational Federation, according to the American delegates, was the consensus on the importance of creating a comprehensive network of statis-tical information from member exchanges throughout the world. . . .

Before this meeting, the New York Stock Exchange cooducted a dry run, via a questionnaire, to obtain a mass of data from each exchange on a number of its listed commpanies, the volume of trading in each stock, the mar-ket value of the turnover, and the breakdown between domestic and foreign activity. This information Is considered important for securities analysts and others not only for following current market trends hut also for bet-ter analysis of the significance of market developments at different times.

The amount of information obtained in the dry run was "very impressive," the Big Board economist said. The material was distributed here for evalua-tion and to determine any modifications necessary to provide comparability for all markets. It was agreed to pursue this issue further. The third area studied at the meeting was the question of establishing an easier access to all markets by securities firms and iovestors. This ia a touchy issue because of varying practices on the world's exchanges.

Some allow the infusion of foreign capital into domestic securities firms. and some do not. Some exchanges provide commission discounts to qualified member broker-dealers, while others do not. The United States exchanges themselves still have to resolve the question of greater foreign access to their facili-

It is also an issue in Japan, which so far has permitted only two American securities firms to become fully licensed here--Merrill Lynch and Loeh, Rhoades. There are only 24 other foreign brokerage firms that have been allowed so far to have the more-re-stricted type of representative offices in this country.

To be fully licensed in Japan, a foreign securities firm must have a mini-. mum capital base of $10 million, in addition to other requirements. Full li-censing is a desirable objective because of the much greater discounts allowed to such operators in dealings on the Japanese markets than are available to other foreign interests.

To try to obtain a liberalization in that field, the United States delegates held discussions with the Japanese Ministry of Financial Securities during their visit.

A study paper on the access issue was also distributed at last week's meeting, but no effort was made to resolve the difficult problems involved.

head of the international group at the conclusion of last week's meeting at the mid-point of his term. In an interview after resigning, Mr. Needham said he had not yet made any plans for taking a new business role in the United States, but expressed by the International Federation at the recent conference. "The federation," he said, "is responding to the changes taking place in the securities business everywhere. It is helping to create new capital markets and improving the operations of existing markets. It is also well aware that capits! formation is a tremendous problem.

securities markets."

Mr. Kolton and Mr. Freund agreed

Botany '500' knows how important it is to suit the well dressed man. Botany '500' knows how important Telecom is."

To suit the well dressed man, you need fine fabrics, impeccable railoring and reasonable prices. To make a suit with all this you need a lot of people doing a lot of work. Much of it on the phone. That's why Borany '500'® needed a special phone system. One designed for their special needs. One designed by TELECOM.

Why TELECOM? For 3 important reasons:

Our product. Our performance. Our price.

Maurice A. Halperin, President, Botany '500'

Our product:

TELECOM privare phone systems use the most advanced equipment available. Over 90% made by Nippon Electric Co., Ltd., founded 75 years ago by Western Electric, and serving 95 countries around the world. So you know it's totally reliable, long-lasting and headache-free.

Our performance:

When TELECOM installs it, TELECOM stands behind it. With maintenance agreements, service contracts, 4-hour emergency service. And a remarkable guarantee backed by TELECOM and Nippon.

Our price:

Investing in your own private phone system means depreciable assets and fixed costs. And doing it all with today's dollars. Plus you get something no one else can give: TELECOM'S unique new financing plan. It's backed by Equico Lessors, a subsidiary of the Equitable Life Assurance Co. It's hard to describe but invaluable to have.

It all makes TELECOM New York's fastest growing interconnect company serving small needs and large (from a 4-phone system to a satellite hook-up). And serving them darn well. Just ask Botany '500', or Nathan's Famous Inc., or El San Juan Hotel. Or better yet, ask us. Call (212) 392-7700.

Determination of Value

The value of the British pound, the Italian lira and the French franc will be determined less by small changes io the value of the mark than by success in controlling inflation and raising exports.

The steady appreciation of the mark has not, as the West Germans themselves had feared, reduced Germany's thriving foreign trade. In fact, the Germans still have healthy surpluses with practically last year, for example, the Germans ran a surplus of $1.5 billioo.

Yen/Rises Against Dollar

THE NEW YORK TIMES, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1976

TOKYO, Oct. 18-The yen shot up against the dollar under heavy buying on the Tokyo foreign exchaoge market Ioday, following the upward revaluation of the West German mark.

The yen's rise was caused by active speculative purchases by exchange banks here, which believed that the Japanese currency would be heavily bought in Eu-rope and would move up appreciably. Trading climbed sharply to $173 million from last Friday's $154 million.

After much fluctuation, the yen closed at 291.40 to the dollar, compared with Friday's 292.90. The yea's advance came all their European partners. With France in the wake of its setbacks for two consecutive days at the end of last week. Mooetary authorities here said, however, that the revaluation of the West of keeping its own inflation under cootrol would be endangered. In the end they chose the lesser evil, a small revaluation.

Advertising A Way to Save on Copy Testing

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY

Most rough executions of television commercials are practically as effective for copy testing as finished spots, a business school professor told a large assembly of advertising researchers vesterday.

And this could easily mean a saviog of some $40,000 for production costs, Prof. Donaid L. Kanter of the Uoiversi-ty of Southern California promised the opening meeting of the annual confer-ence of the Advertising Research Foundation at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Mr. Kanter has studied all available research and talked to many corpora-tioos' research people and, he said, came up with no evidence to disprove his findings.

The exception, bowever, is the rough commercial made from line-drawing storyboards. These comic strip-like reostoryhoards. Inese come strip-like reo-derings are the basic directions for commercial production and are consid-erably lesss effective than finished spots, he said. But not roughs prepared with rendered art, photo storyboards, or live-action (and usually videotaped) visoals.

"Roughs are bere to stay, like love," said Mr. Kanter, who added that they were in widespread use by advertisers. Copy testing, by the way, is when ad-vertising is shown to actual consumers to get their reactions.

The other speakers of the morning also tossed interesting little research nuggets into the crowded Grand Ball-room, Among those that were caught were:

Single claims lo commercials are more effective than multiple claims, and the more time people spend on a print ad the less they take away.

You say you want more? Here's more: These kinds of ads are remembered hetter than their opposites, hig print ads, color ads, ads with short headlines, ads with short copy (but not always) and color TV spots.

And still more: Top-of-mind awareness of a commercial can be related to future sales; recollection of a commercial can hinge on whether the show in which it ap-peared was enjoyed; the length of a spot has little to do with its memorabil-ity, and, best of all, commercials don't have to be believed to be memorable.

The other speakers of the morning were Russell I. Haley, an associate professor at the University of New Hampshire; Myril Axelrod of Young & Rubicam, John Palmer and Richard Westwood of David Beaumont & Com-pany, Charles Ramond of Marketing Control, and Michael F. von Gonten of the Research Systems Corporation. The theme of the cooference is "Ad-vertisiog Research: A Mid-Century Perspective." Now that doesn't mean that this is 1950. Beo Lipstein, senior vice presideot of SSC&B and conference chairman, explained. Rather it means that advertising research, which began io earnest in the 1920's, has now passed infancy and adolescence and has reached majority - professional status. And while once advertising research people were considered the enemies of all agency creative persons, he said, now they are looked upoo as

To back up that theory he invited John F. Bergin, executive vice president and creative director of SSC&B, to be the lead-off speaker.

An Unlisted Phone

No Proof of Wealth People with unlisted telephones are usually movie stars and business leaders who just don't want to be bothered, right? Wrong, says Trendex Inc., a re-search coocern that has looked into the matter.

Those with unlisted phones tend to be blue-collar workers or young and single. They're also more likely not to have gone to college. And, notes. Trendex, there is a higher incideoce among them of nonwhites com-pared with the average listed-phone households. The importance of this information is that much consum-er research is based on random samplings from telephone direc-tories. What Trendex is saying is that the consumers who are being missed are not affluent after all.

the Big Apple's problems, some of the remedies taken and what the future can hold, is signed "Doyle Dane Bern-bach. We have signed a 25-year lease to stay in New York."

Changes for Tuesday Tuesday Publications. Chicago, Is merging its two monthly newspaper supplements that are designed for black audiences and are carried by general interest newspapers. Tuesday-At-Home, the newer of the publications, will become the Homemaker sec-tion of Tuesday Magazine. Another major change is that circulation is being cut 30 percent from 2.3 million to 1.7 million and the ad rates lowered by some 15 percent.

W. Leonard Evans Jr., presideot and editor in chief, said that the circulation being trimmed was the least effective and that during the first quarter of next year he planned to add 400,000 circulation in new markets.

Magazines Still Thriving

The magazine industry is continuing its 1976 boom in true Bicentennial fashion. Last month was the best Sep-tember on record, according to the Publishers Information Bureau, which said that its members increased their advertising pages 19 percent to 8,443 and reveoues 21 percent to $142.9 mil-

THE ECONOMIST announces a competition for advertising decision-makers in the U.S.: You are requested to tell us why THE ECONOMIST's new U.S. Advertisement Edition will be such an important newcomer to the local media scene...And in so doing, to put yourself in the running to win a rather extraordinary trip aboard British Airways Concorde to London.

Starting January 8, 1977 you will be able to buy a page in the U.S.-only circulation of the prestigious and influential London ECONOMIST for as little as $1,500. This means THE ECONOMIST becomes one of the most cost-effective media for reaching the top of the U.S. business and financial markets.

To mark the introduction of this new ECONOMIST edition, members of the U.S. advertising community (agencies and their clients) are invited to compete for the London trip top prize-or one of 250 runner-up prizes. All you have to do is place the reasons given . below in their proper order. What's more, the advertising agency that boasts the most runners-up teins $5,850 worth of space (the equivalent of three full colour pages) in the U.S. Edition for one of its clients.

down 56.6 percent from the restated $7.8 million, or 62 cents a share, in last year's third quarter. The Buffalo-based holding company

The Security Pacific Corporation, based hardest hit by loan losses. Earnings also improved slightly from this year's second-quarter operating earnings of $3.1 million, or 25 ceots a share. The Security Pacific Corporation, based in San Francisce, reported third quarter operatiog earnings rose to $20.9 million, or 98 cents a share, up from $16.2 mil-lion, or 76 cents a share in the 1975 lion, or 76 cents a share in the 1975 third quarter.

Take A Long Lunch Hour Aboard Concorde

Next to a lunar space shot, the fastest, sleekest, newest way to travel is undoubtedly British Airways Concorde jet. More luxurious than a NASA flight, too. Sweeping across the Atlantic beyond the + speed of sound, between cocktails and liqueurs there's barely time to peruse your copy of THE ECONOMIST (82% of U.S. subscribers devote more than one hour to each issue). Like our magazine, British Airways Concorde service gives the best of traditional British quality and attention to detail -while being totally up to the minute.

The first prize includes a round trip for two, Washington to London and back.

A Day at the Races with Gipsy Love

Investing in THE ECONOMIST as an advertising medium is no gamble at all. So, to add an element of risk to your life, we invite you to go halves with THE ECONOMIST for one day on our thoroughbred racehorse - Gipsy Love. That day will be either the Grand National at Aintree (April 2, 1977) or during the famous Cheltenham meeting (March, 1977). You will receive full owner's privileges and one half of the prize money if Gipsy Love is placed but, of course, none of the costs of ownership.

Gipsy Love is now with a leading British trainer, Captain Tim Forster, at his Berkshire stables and will be ridden by a champion steeplechase jockey, Graham Thorner. Our editors - famed for their "gifts of prophesy" in the realms of international politics and business decline to predict the outcome. But racing afficionados tell us his prospects are good.

A Week at The Ritz 🖹 à Deux -

A short walk across Green Park from Buckingham Palace brings you to The Ritz, in Piccadilly. Although little more than half THE ECONOMIST's age (we first appeared in 1843), The Ritz retains a traditional elegance of service and surroundings while discreetly keeping up with the times. First prize includes accommodations for two at The Ritz, London, for one week.

A Brace of Grouse for Consolation

Why new bottles of The Famous Grouse 90° "ice proof" scotch whisky? Take one as symbol of our values to the business reader who needs sophisticated, objective reporting of world finance, business and current affairs. The other for our efficiency as a low cost, high performance medium to reach prime advertising prospects in the U.S. Like THE ECONOMIST, this balanced, mellow blend represents quality in an age of change. A brace to the 250 runners-up. (*Note: In states where the giving/posting of even The Famous Grouse is illegal, runners-up will receive a 1977 edition of the equally distinguished ECONOMIST Desk Diary.)

A Special Prize for the Brightest Agency

The advertising agency that boasts the most runners-up wins $5,850 worth of space for one of its clients in the form of three fourcolour pages in THE ECONOMIST's U.S. Advertisement Edition.

A Contest for Astute Advertising Men and Women

Place the following statements in order of importance.

I consider the main reasons why THE ECONOMIST's new U.S.-only Advertisement Edition is an important newcomer to the local media scene are:

A Low unit page rate: THE ECONOMIST can be added to an existing business press schedule for little increase in total cost.

B. Cost-effectiveness in reaching the absolute top-in terms of influence and income-of the business and financial markets (The average income of U.S. subscribers io 1975 exceeded 553,000).

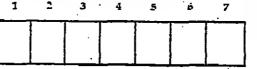

C. Topicality, quality and unrivaled prestige of the editorial product. D. Continuous circulation growth in the U.S. (up 76% in the past three years alone).

E Unique coverage of opinion formers, government, the highest echelons of business and finance. F. Short advertisement copy deadlines.

G. 82% of U.S. subscribers devote over one hour every week to reading THE ECONOMIST.

New Advertisement

Though THE ECONOMIST's "circulation has always been modest ... its readership has always been select" (as Newsweek explained). But in the U.S. our circulation has been growing rapidly -up 76% in the past three years. So, starting January, 1977, THE ECONO-MIST will offer advertisers the facility of reaching just those people "at the pinnacles of power" (Neusweek again) who regularly read the magazine in the U.S. The page rate is so modest it will be possible to add this new U.S. edition for extra impact on crucially important business, government and opinion leaders at very little extra cost. Please telephone us and we will show you how THE ECONOMIST can be consolidated into your existing business media schedule.

"May Be the Most Sensible Periodical in the English Language"

The description is James Reston's, of The N.Y. Times. The periodical referred to, THE ECONOMIST. Frequently quoted in the American press to clarify a point or add authority to an opinion, we are "today edited as much for the American as the British reader" (according to a recent Wall Street Journal report). Each week readers find regular sections on the U.S., International Report, World Business, Finance and Investment, Britain and the Common Market. Background, analysis and prediction of what's going on around the globe (and what is about to happen) is uniquely well provided by THE ECONOMIST. And for U.S. readers it serves the vital function of supplementing, enlarging upon and contrasting with their accustomed sources of news and information.

The Rules of the Game • All entries will be examined. • The competition will be independently judged. • In the event of a ie, those who have submitted the correct answer will be asked to answer another question which will further test their skill. • Par-ticipants must be of legal drinking age in the states in which they reside. • Closing date for entries is November 15, 1976. • Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery. • No person may submit more than one entry. • The contest is open only to those working in advertising agencies and those in advertising or related functions in other companies. • First prize winners must take up their prizes in person. The week in London will begin on either March 11 or 28, 1977. • Entratous should be prepared for their names to be published. • The running of Gipsy Love is subject to the U.K. rules of racing and all engage-menas will be selected by THE ECONMIST. • All entries must be made on the entry form supplied; additional conies must be made on the entry form supplied; additional copies are available on request from THE ECONOMIST New York Office.

People and Business: Ex.Chief Of Currency Agency Joins Bank

Du Pont 3d Quarter Net Up 17.5%

James E. Smith, who resigned in June after a sometimes stormy tour as Comptroller of the Currency, has taken a senior position in the banking industry he formerly regulated. First Chicagn Corporation, parent of the First National Bank of Chicago, yesterday announced that effective Nov. 1 Mr. Smith, 46 years old, will be joining the bank hulding company as executive vice president.

68

The company said that in the newly created position, Mr. Smith's duties would include legislative liaison activ-ities at both the state and national levels.

Mr. Smith served as Comptroller of the Currency from 1973 until his resignation in June, which he said was for "entirely personal" reasons. The comptroller's office regulates some 4,700 commercial banks throughout the United States.

The former comptroller, who had previously served as Deputy Under Secretary of the Treasury, drew criticism from Capitol Hill for what some regarded as the failure of his office to move promptly enough to avoid col-lapse of the Franklin National Bank. He was also attacked for what some viewed as an excessive travel schedule and, last winter, for "laxity" after the disclosures that a cumber of banks in the United States might have been in precarious financial condition as a result of lnans that had turned bad in the oational recession.

Jack W. Carlson, a former Assistant Secretary of the Interior and former

He has worked ing the Government, he has worked in the Defense Department and on the staff of the Council of Economic Advisers, as well as Interior and Budget, As Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Carlson was in charge of energy and minerals policy. He resigned energy and minerals poincy. He resigned from the Interior post earlier this year to run for the United States Senate from Utah, his hnme state. He was defeated in the Republican primary. Mr. Carlson will replace Carl H. Madden, who has left the Chamber to hardness a professor of husiness admin.

become a professor of business administration at American University. Job changes: Adolph Posnick, 50 years old, president of the Ferro Cor-poration, has been elected chief executive of the company succeeding Clifford M. Andrews, 63 years old, who is taking early retirement for reasons of health. Mr. Andrews has been chairman and chief executive. He will continue as a director and serve as a consultant . . . R. J. West-lund and Carl W. Swan have resigned as directors of the Reserve Oil and Gas Company, Mr. Westlund for reasons of health and Mr. Swan to pursue personal husiness interests. Mr. Swan also resigned as president and a director of Reserve Oil Inc.

Carey emphasized yesterday, however," that they regarded the simple removal" of Dr. Holloman from his $65,000-a-year and post as only one small aspect of the up2 gradiog of management io the hospital system. They said further that the corn poration's long-term deficit problems could be solved only in the context of radical changes to the organization of both the public and private hospital systems in the city.

All three told representatives from the Mayor's office that "they didn't need the aggravation," as one aide put it, and the were happy to stay where they were. Criticism of Dr. Holloman has increased as it has become clear that the Health and Hospitals Corporation is operating under a substantial deficit this year and expects an even bigger deficit next year-both of which threaten to undermine the city's" three-year timetable for balancing its overall hudget.

On Friday, Sidney Schwartz, the deputy state comptroller for New York City, reported to the Cootrol Board that the Hospitals Corporation had a deficit of $45.6 million in its hillion-dollar hudget. $16.5 million of reimbursement funds for this year, and a $96.1 million deficit next

State and city officials have said that these deficits could not be eliminated. "In additioo," he added, "the Emergen-cy Financial Control Board has turned down the city's application for use of $21 million in Section 3-H funds which groups and the hospital workers them-

Cold Makes It Hard for Players to Warm to Tasks, But Nothing Stops World Series Announcers

By JOHN J. O'CONNOR

By JOHN J. Except for the last few innings of the second game, baseball's World Series between the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds has been a surprisingly dull television affair so far. Perhaps it is merely the cold weather. There is something ludicrous about watching baseball players massaging a hot water bottle to warm their hands. Or perhaps the good ridizens of Cincin-nati are a touch too polite, too serenely nati are a touch too polite, too serenely confident, to generate more than "ac-ceptable" excitement.

Certainly the World Series has not reached the pitch of frenzy that came in last week's final American League playoff game between the Yankees and the Kansas City Royals. Ignoring the niceties of sportsmanship, fans in Yan-kee Stadium bombarded the opposition with boos and garbage. Time had to be called periodically to clean up the outfield. The Yankee management was forced to amounce an appeal for minimum tolerance.

mum tolerance. In addition, while the World Series is being carried on NBC, the playoffs were presented on ABC, the network that has led the way in packaging sports as slick entertainment. While a helicopter caught a dramatic live pic-ture of Yankee Stadium, a chorus was heard singing "New York, New York, it's a beliuva town." Howard Cosell was brought on ouickly to do his Mr. was brought on quickly to do his Mr. Irritation act, blabbing on endlessly to the evident chagrin and fascination of even his fellow announcers, Keith Jack-son and Reggie Jackson.

NBC attempts a similar mix, but too often the result has all the class of a bargain-basement sale. The special shots, the music and the related features are somewhat chintzy. Joe Garagiola's Mr. Nice Guy is not as effec-tive as the abrasive Cosell performing persona. In a pre-game feature called

keeps you up on a changing city.

Wednesday and Friday in The New York Times

"The Baschall World of Joe Garagiola," the announcer stands behind a giant revolving baseball on what must be one of the cheapest sets ever allowed on prime-time television. Then, of course, there is the talk, the flow of words designed to hammer communication into total meaninglessness. Simple descriptions of the games are not enough. The specter of silence is a palpable threat to all announcers.

On NBC, in the first World Series Game. Tony Rubek kept explaining that the Yankee pitcher "is going get hurr unless he keeps the ball down."

hurt unless he keeps the ball down." A Cincinnati batter then hit a home run on a low fastball. "Thet's unusual," said the announcer blithely, "most clubs.are high fastball hitters." But it doesn't matter. The point is not sense but pacing, not sharp analysis but fill-ing in the dead-sir gaps. NBC gets everybody into the act. Snapshots of the players families are regularly flashed on the screen. Even snapshots of the announcers' families are used. Mr. Garagiola feigned sur-prise at the appearance of a black-and-white picture from his wedding. Yogi Berra, Yankee catcher at the time, was in attendance. Said Joe: "Yeah, but I made the best catch that day, Fill tellya." Maybe there will be more to talk about when the Series resumes talk about when the Series resumes today at tough and hysterical Yankee Stadium I hope so, III tellya.

Public Television's "The Puzzle Chil-dren" is an hour-long documentary about children with learning disabiliabout children with learning disabili-ties. The program's hosts are Julie An-drews, who also sings, and Bill Bixby, who contributes some magic tricks. If can be seen this evening at 8 on Chan-nel 13. Produced by Pittsburgh station-WQED, the program uses entertain-ment to explore a serious subject, in the manner of past Public Television programs about unperced discases and programs about venereal disease and breast cancer, The manner doesn't quite work in this case, not only because some, of the entertainment-most notably a couple of badly acted sketches-is second-rate, but also because the subject itself resists clarifying analysis. Most of the problems covered, involving children who generally are otherwise nor-mal, do indeed remain a puzzle. In many instances, the symptoms can only be described. Diagnoses may vary widely. Possible solutions are still being discovered. This situation is not fatal, of course

This situation is not fatal, or course, for a well-meaning television project, but "The Puzzle Children" leaves the unfortunate impression of being heavi-ly padded. A number of documentary essays on affected children are quite good, and the two hosts are helpful, but too much of the rest is repetitive or vague or merely silly. On many sta-tions, including WNET/13, the program will be followed by a live "community outreach" program, during which view-ers, can phone in questions to experts. That device may return this laudable venture more to its serious point.

IF YOUR CHILD IS HAVING TROUBLE IN SCHOOL PS SPECIAL MI

Your child might be one of the estimated 2 million American children who have a hidden handicap doctors and educators refer to as a "learning disability." These kids are intelligent and they want to learn, but they're just not learning.

But how can you tell for sure if your child is learning disabled? What are the symptoms? Where can you go for help?

Watch Julie Andrews and Bill Bixby in a 60-minute special on learning disabilities tonight.

Decide for yourself, but let Bernadine Morris show you what the designers say is decidedly "in."

"...ve're in our vintage years."

••We feel about wine the way we feel about life. It's there to be tasted. And enjoyed. Take tonight. It's nobody's birthday. Or anniversary. It's just an ordinary Tuesday. Except our friends are here.

And, for us, that's reason enough to break out the wine. A 1969 Cabernet Sauvignon. You see today is the best day of our lives. So was yesterday. And tomorrow will be too.

That's because Sandy and I try to make every day special. To us that can mean anything from spending 2 hours looking for the perfect plant for our bedroom window, to spending 2 hours on the phone to get people out to vote. I guess we know what we want from life. And when you know that, you don't have to wait for the good times.

You make them.

The way Bob and Sandy feel about life is an example of the new values many young adults share today.

And because Psychology Today responds to those values, it attracts over four and a half million people every month.

People who believe in living their dreams today, not tomorrow.

For example, according to Simmons, more of PT's readers drink wine, ski and play tennis, and travel, than the readers of just about every other major magazine.

Our readers are young, affluent and always in the market for quality products and services. And PTreaders set the trends others follow.
